The Bidding.

The bidding at practically every table was South one diamond.
West passed, North bid one heart.
North need not trump with hearts as he can make a One over One by bidding one heart. This suited East and he passed. South bid three clubs. West passed, and North went to three hearts. At some tables, East doubled three hearts, but the smarter declaration was to pass. South would then bid four diamonds. West should not double as he is not prepared to double hearts. North in most cases then went to four No Trump which East doubled. South then bid five diamonds which West doubled, this becoming the final contract at most tables. However some players went to five hearts which, of course, was doubled, practically forcing South to bid six diamonds.

The Play.

West's opening lead was the five of hearts. The jack was played from dummy. East covering with the queen the declarer trumping with the three of diamonds. South the declarer played his ace of clubs and then ruffed the four of clubs in dummy with the five of diamonds. The seven of diamonds was returned from dummy. East playing a spade. South the declarer playing the jack of diamonds which West won with the king of diamonds. West led the seven of spades which the dummy won with the king. The six of hearts was returned from dummy.
East played the eight and the declarer trumped with the four of diamonds. West overtrumping with the six of diamonds. West then returned the five of spades which the dummy won with the ace. Declarer returned the six of spades from dummy. East played the ten, declarer trumped with the ten of diamonds. West discarding the ten of clubs.

The declarer cashed his ace and queen of diamonds and his king of clubs but was forced to grant the last two tricks to West, who held the good queen of clubs and the nine of diamonds. Those who had bid five diamonds were deficient two tricks doubled which was 600 points, less 100 honors making their net loss on the hand 500 points.

TO PERFORM AT CLUB DE RECREIO ON THURSDAY

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the performance that was to have been held at the Club de Recreio on Thursday last had to be postponed and will take place on Thursday.

The performance was in the nature of a farewell by the members of the Tournee Teatral, a group of Portuguese actors who have provided excellent entertainments in Hongkong.

The present troupe of actors have already given several successful performances at the Club de Recreio in Hongkong, and have captivated crowded houses in Macao as well, during the last few months. As readers have already been informed, this company of actors have toured the Portuguese colonies, where they have been enthusiastically received. On the eve of their departure from Macao, they have been requested to give the many friends they made in Hongkong the opportunity of witnessing once more, a final display of typically Portuguese acting.

The programme is sure to please, consisting as it does, of three parts: the first one will be entirely Portuguese folk-songs with explanatory prelude, in Portuguese, which will enhance their interest. The songs, always interesting, will thus be very much more pleasing—fados, folk-songs and lieder will thus be attractively blended.

A melodramatic playette, by the celebrated Portuguese dramatist, Julio Dantas, will form the second part of the programme.

The concluding portion of the evening's entertainment will be a suitable conclusion to this programme, for it will be a splendid comedy entitled "Conde Freddie," with beautiful music.

Colonel Marmaduke Grove, son of a Cornish emigrant to Chile, is shown above in uniform with other members of the Socialist Junta after the short-lived success of his revolutionary enterprise. For a few days, he was virtual dictator of Chile. To-day he is a prisoner.

Safely home again after his near-tragic experience in the Atlantic, Stanley Hauner, the Polish-American airman, is shown here at Miami, descending the gangplank of the freighter Circe Shell which rescued him after he had been adrift for 8 days off the Portuguese coast. Shown with him is the ship's master, Captain James Wilson.

MAN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Susan Carey, 22 and beautiful, is secretly in love with Bob Dunbar, millionaire's son. Before Arkroyd, who wants Bob for himself, plots to separate them. Susan has been engaged to her former employer, Ernest Heath, but Heath overheard a conversation between her and Bob and asked her to break the engagement. She finds Bob as he is boarding a train for New York and there is a reconciliation. Bob tells his father he is going to marry Susan and the elder Dunbar is furious. The father goes to see Susan and tells her it will ruin Bob's life if she marries him.

CHAPTER XLVI

"That's exactly what I mean," said Mr. Dunbar. The faintest shade of regret tinged his voice. Susan sat silent, her hands locked in her lap. Her mind was in confusion. Yesterday everything had been clear sailing. It had all sounded so simple, so easy. Even Bob's report of his father's anger had had a far-away, unreal aspect. Older people were always troubling themselves about things that really didn't matter. Susan had thought. Stocks and bonds, houses and money. What did they count when weighed against her love for Bob? Bob had agreed with her. They would be married very quietly. He had an offer of a job on a ranch in Montana. Some man he had known at college was experimenting with wheat and there was a little tenant house they could have. Susan had thought of herself simply and joyously as a farmer's wife. It had all seemed quite idyllic. Now this purse-proud old man with his talk of inheritances had come to spoil everything.

She felt a little sick as she listened to him. His voice rumbled on, smoothly and persuasively. "I know you wouldn't want to stand in his way—we all go through these puppy love affairs." She felt in a daze. Was it true that her love for Bob would bring him only unhappiness and ill fortune? Would he tire of poverty and of her with it? The poison of the old man's cunning barbs infected her heart. Perhaps she and

Bob had been fools. Perhaps she had been wrong to think that life could be so simple and straightforward as they, in their rosy dream, had visioned it. Through her misery dawned the realization that her father had repeated a question. She looked up, her eyes clouded with painful resentment. "I beg your pardon, I'm afraid I wasn't listening."

He said, "I will make it worth your while if you let him go."

"Oh!" All the pain and wounded pride of the girl surged to the surface. She stood up proudly and menacingly. She said in a voice that trembled, "I think you'd better go before I say something I'll regret. After all, you are Bob's father."

He was won to reluctant admiration but he could not leave without attempting to justify himself. His carefully moulded sentences flowed on. Susan stared at a point some inches over the man's head, expressionless.

"Don't be afraid," she said bitterly. "I shan't do any harm to your son."

The man, a power in the downtown world of affairs, departed feeling somehow humiliated and routed.

Susan fought a battle with herself that morning. Bob was to come at eight and through alternate chills and fevers she tried to make up her mind what to say to him when he arrived. She had explained to Aunt Jessie who had remained singularly unmoved by the news of the girl's change of plan that the caller had been Bob's father. Aunt Jessie had tactfully refrained from asking questions. She had seemed gentler since her illness. Aunt Jessie was looking forward to making a long visit to her sister who lived in southern Illinois.

"I'm going for a walk," Susan told her abruptly a few minutes later. Scarcely conscious of the direction she was taking, she boarded a street car headed for the business district. She must do something. She must keep active. She stopped at a drug store telephone booth and called Ray Flannery.

Soon you may be able to buy a home as you would an automobile—from a dealer, on time payment, and with a trade in value. For the "mass production" of one storey steel houses, like the one sketched above, is planned by a new corporation formed in New York. The houses are to be made of pressed steel with five and six rooms. Completely equipped with electric refrigeration, heating units, plumbing and wiring, the structures would be sold for $3500 and less at rates of $30 a month.

"Well, stranger, where have you been keeping yourself?" Ray demanded. "I've missed you like the dickens."

"Can you have lunch with me?" Susan asked. Ray agreed with enthusiasm. Half an hour later over the square, white-topped table in a sweet shop Ray stared at Susan with frank interest.

"Come into money or something?" she wanted to know. Susan tried to explain. Her aunt had been ill, she said vaguely, and she had been needed at home. Ray seemed satisfied with this answer.

"Say, the new girl in Heath's office sure is a lemon," Ray continued. "She looks like something the cat dragged in." Susan smiled. She had heard about Miss Smith from Jack Waring but Ray's description seemed unduly harsh.

"The old man's gone away, I hear," Ray rambled on. "What do you know about that?"

dropped earlier in the conversation. The girl's name was Carey. She lived with her aunt Jessie. Bob had said, on the west side. His spatulate thumb ran down the list of telephone subscribers. Sure enough, there was the name. In his small, neat, copper-plate script, Dunbar wrote the street number in his pocket address book. It might be handy to have during the next few days.

To his father's surprise and irritation, Bob did not come round. The servants reported that he had returned home around noon, had packed a bag and departed without leaving any word. Mrs. Dunbar was at Hot Springs. She was one of those fretful, chronic invalids. Her husband was relieved that there was no necessity of explaining the situation to her.

After a day of waiting during which his digestion was annoyingly impaired the older man mapped out a course of action. Hard-shelled autocrat that he was, he loved his only son dearly. This open break with Robert disturbed him. Mr. Dunbar decided to see the girl and talk a little sense to her.

He frowned with distaste as his taxi, bumping along the shabby side street, came to a stop. It was just as he had expected—a house in a row of brave, run-down dwellings badly needing paint. "Wait for me," he commanded the driver. Dunbar rang the bell with some trepidation. It was not a pleasant errand but it was one he must go through with whether or not he liked it. A lean, grey-haired woman in a spotless blue house dress answered the ring. "We don't want to buy anything," she began firmly. Then, struck by something in her caller's bearing, she stopped confused. "I want to see Miss Susan Carey," Dunbar said in his courtly manner. "Is she in?"

"Oh, yes. I'll call her." The grey-haired woman gave him another penetrating look and then invited him to enter. As the man waited in the small living room he glanced about with annoyance. It was not at all the sort of interior he had expected. The old rosewood chairs, carved and upholstered in the manner of the '80's, had a decent self-respect about them. So had the ancient square piano. The whole place reminded him dimly of his mother's front parlor. It was uncompromisingly clean and the frilled white curtains showed no sign of the usual Chicago grime.

There was a faint rustle in the hall and he stood up, feeling (Continued on Page 10.)

No doctors' fee will be charged and even the medicines will be distributed without charge.

There will be a residential nurse in daily attendance at the clinic, which occupies a well ventilated building of two storeys and is within easy reach to the surrounding villages in Shatin. The nurse will attend to all the dressing work and maternity cases.

The Benevolent Society members are to be congratulated for their charitable enterprise, and it is hoped that the clinic will prove to be a boon for the 4,000 poor and needy villagers living in Shatin.

LATEST JAPANESE DENIAL

Shanghai, July 25. Officials of the Japanese Consulate General this afternoon promptly denied the Chinese allegation that the Japanese authorities were preparing to establish a temporary post office for the transmission of mail to and from Manchuria, although arrangements may be made to transmit the letters of Japanese residents to Manchuria via Dairen aboard Japanese steamers. No formal post office, however, has been planned.

The Chinese authorities, nevertheless, discredit the Japanese denial and contend that from reliable sources it is understood that a meeting will be held this afternoon by the Japanese Consular officials and civilian bodies for the discussion of the plan.

A statement explaining the recent action of closing down the Chinese post offices in the North-eastern provinces, and setting forth detailed measures for the transmission of foreign mails, and the embargo on incoming mails from areas in the military occupation of Japan in Manchuria will be issued this afternoon from the Nanking Ministry of Communications.—Reuter.

Embargo Announced.

Nanking, July 25. The Ministry of Communications this evening issued a statement announcing the postal embargo on Manchuria. No mails will be sent to Manchuria and stamps issued there will not be recognised. All categories of mail bearing there will be regarded the same as unpaid postage.

The Japanese government are fully responsible for all the inconveniences thus caused, the statement concludes.—Reuter.

liner Georges Philippar is inconclusive.

The Commission considered three possible causes for the disaster, namely, a short circuit in the electrical installation, an accidental fire, or foul play.

It held that the evidence given by the witnesses cited gave no more support to any one of those theories than to the others.—Reuter's Special Service.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRE.

"Condemned to Death," film adaptation of "Jack O'Lantern," opening on Thursday at the Queen's Theatre of a series of mysterious murders that shock and terrify the country. It appears that one by one all those connected with a case in which the death sentence was passed are being done to death. In the end the judge who tried the case receives warning that his time has come. The police redouble their efforts to solve the problem, and are as surprised as the public.

The picture in good and satisfying entertainment, Walter Forde's direction is capital and the cast without exception give excellent performances, Arthur Wontner heads the list.

"Husband's Holiday."

Most screen stars work toward accumulating enough wealth to retire from the exacting requirements of acting. But Adrienne Ames surprised the luxurious ease of a rich society girl to become a motion picture actress. Miss Ames, featured in "Husband's Holiday," Paramount romance-drama coming to the King's Theatre next Thursday, might have begun her screen career earlier, had she desired. Studio executives say her dark southern type of beauty photographs admirably. But Miss Ames was "awfully sporting" about it. Sensing that her social prominence and wealth might be taken for a "Club" to gain her special attention, she decided to learn acting from the first rung of the ladder and schooled herself with minor parts. She was first signed up through the experience of posing for a nationally known photographer, whose professional credit line, "Ruth Harriet Louise," appears in magazine reproductions from coast-to-coast. Miss Ames, who has toured Europe five times, visiting Monte Carlo, Germany, France, Belgium and England, was en route home from a Honolulu sojourn when she decided to have her own portrait done by this Los Angeles camera artist. A friend who was remembered with one of the copies took it to Paramount's casting director, and without any idea of the lady's position in life, summoned her for a test and tried her out as an actress.

Her New York apartment is one of the most beautiful in the metropolis, with a terrace large enough to accommodate 500 guests. She maintains a summer home in Westport, Connecticut, where she is also a member of an exclusive club. She now reports for work at 9 a.m. Her most prominent role to date was in "24 Hours," as the woman who stole Kay Francis' gentleman friend away.

"Two Kinds of Women."

Miriam Hopkins and Phillips Holmes—there's a romantic team! Miriam, the petite, golden-haired girl, was unknown to film fans, now with the admiring movie world at her feet! Holmes, the handsome, romantic—fresh from triumphs in "The Criminal Code," and "An American Tragedy." They are seen together for the first time in this story of a Western girl who has always yearned to live in and become a part of the glittering, fascinating life of New York City and who gets her wish, to the accomplishment of feverish action dramatic thrills. "Two Kinds of Women," which is now showing at the King's Theatre, is an action-bracer. Hopped up to a high pitch with intense plot-interest, it provides that other quality which makes it perfect entertainment—excellent acting. The supporting cast for the love-pair includes Wynne Gibson, firm-willed villainess at "The Gang Buster," and "June Moon"; Stuart Erwin, lovable purveyor of wistful comedy characterizations; Irving Pichel, vigorous actor who put a new meaning into "strong acting" with his delineation—of the prosecutor in "An American Tragedy"; Stanley Fields, believably treacherous bad man in "Street of Chance"; and Josephine Dunn, blonde leading lady for many of film's greatest actors, returning to the screen after a year's due to illness.

Directed by William C. de Mille, one of the most famous megaphonists in the business, "Two Kinds of Women" is great talkie entertainment.

"50 Fathoms Deep."

"50 Fathoms Deep," a stirring drama of deep sea adventure, is showing at the Central Theatre to-day. It is a picture that has human and exciting moments. Under the direction of William Neill, the production leaves nothing to be desired in the way of realism and the deep sea shots are not only interesting but decidedly thrilling. The sound effects under water are marvelous. The plot is well developed dramatically.

Briefly, this is what happens. Two deep sea divers, Tim Burke and Pinky Caldwell, are staunch friends in spite of their great difference in age and character. The younger one, Pinky, marries a deceitful gold-digging blonde, believing her to be a model for pure womanhood. She causes a rift between the two pals, making them bitter enemies. They are forced to work together again on a wreck—a yacht which is buried in fifty fathoms of water. Tim descends to the wreck in the midst of a raging storm and discovers the bodies of Pinky's wife and a man about-town. In his attempt to hide the evidence and spare his pal he is caught in the wreckage and is unable to free himself. Pinky goes down, not so much to help Tim, as to finish their fight. The sight that greets him when he reaches bottom convinces him that his wife had framed him, and that Tim was a greater friend than he deserved.

WAR HORRORS

It is difficult at the moment to judge whether the Disarmament Conference is destined to achieve any really substantial results. The first stage is over, with major issues still to be decided. Something has been accomplished, however, by the delegates agreeing to the prohibition of aerial attacks on civilians and to the abolition of gas and bacteriological warfare. If this means that these points are to be embodied in a new Convention, then there are hopes that the world may be spared almost unspeakable horrors. Despite all that has been written on the subject, it is still true that the average man has a very vague notion of what modern warfare would mean. He realises that somehow the next war will be worse than the last one. He supposes that air raids would be executed on a greater scale, with increased frequency, and across wider distances. He knows that aeroplane bombs are now more powerful than the largest which Zeppelins used fourteen years ago, and he may even have heard of the "death dew." But he possibly imagines that with the aid of gas-masks and underground shelters, together with the protection afforded by fast interceptor planes, the raided cities would not suffer very much more than they did in the Great War.

If we want to get away from lay speculation on the subject and get some insight into the probabilities, we need only take note of the inquiry organised by the Inter-Parliamentary Union at Geneva into the character of a big modern war. A score of experts contribute to this symposium, including soldiers, chemists, psychologists, engineers, financiers, sociologists, and physicians. The book which represents their labours must be regarded as one of the most terrible ever written. Let us observe for a moment what is said about air raids on enemy towns. The number of bombers required to put a large city out of action varies according to the cargo which they carry. One chemical contributor estimates that a couple of machines, distributing a certain chemical, would suffice to put London out of a war. But let it be assumed that a belligerent decides to employ 300 bombing machines against London. The service experts all admit that the majority of these 300 aeroplanes would get over London, possibly at a great height. They would be sent in waves. The first wave would carry high explosive, including individual bombs weighing a ton apiece. The entire squadron would bring far more explosive than fell on London during the whole of the Great War. A ton bomb will destroy a whole city block; it will wreck any subterranean shelter which is roofed with less than 80ft. of solid earth or 13ft. of reinforced concrete. The effect of the first wave would be to drive the entire population underground, kill many thousands of people, and disorganise all public services, including food supplies. Psychologists estimate that the morale of a nation would be so wrecked by this fearful visitation that the few heroic people would be submerged in a complete collapse of character. On the heels of the first wave would arrive the second wave of raiders, dropping incendiary bombs filled with thermite, which burns at 3,000° Celsius, and cannot be put out by any known extinguisher. These bombs are so light and compact that thousands could be dropped. They would multiply their frightful effects with the aid of broken gas mains and blazing petrol stores. The people, crouching underground, would soon be aware that over their heads London was a sea of flame. The final wave of raiders would drop poison gas and vesicant dew. The poison gas, being heavier than air, would penetrate the underground refuges, excepting those protected by airtight doors and supplied with pure filtered air by tall conduits protruding above the gas level in the blazing streets. The vesicant chemicals are so noxious that a man will die if three drops touch no more than his foot; and their effect is semi-permanent, in that they can kill weeks or even months after they have been sprayed on a city.

Enough has already been written to show what modern warfare can be like. It only needs to be added that all these lethal substances can be dropped in containers with time fuses, so that fresh outbreaks occur periodically, long after the raiders have departed. And added to these might be such final abominations as the dropping of bacteria in enemy reservoirs. Surely when we contemplate these things there can be no two opinions on the necessity of safeguarding civilian populations from such horrors. In the last resort, of course, war in any form is an abomination; it becomes even more so when, as will surely be the case unless agreement is reached, the civilian population becomes the first objective.

NINTH SYMPHONIC CONCERT

SUNDAY'S GREAT SUCCESS

The ninth symphonic concert held at the Peninsula Hotel on Sunday again drew a full house, thus demonstrating the continued popularity of these most enjoyable functions.

A really excellent programme was selected, and in particular the piano solos of Mr. Makleoff were greatly appreciated. He gave wonderful interpretations of Rachmaninoff's Preludes in C, Sharp Minor and G, Minor, and was encored for each. Indeed, the audience appeared not even satisfied then. It is hoped this talented musician will again appear on solos in the near future.

Another appreciated item was Thom's well-known "Simple Avou," given as a cornet solo by Mr. C. Floechi, while "Sally in Our Alley" was also well rendered. The final item, "Cavalade," was a big hit, being loudly applauded.

Rumours are current that General Chan Ming-shu, former Nanking Minister of Communications, arrived in Hongkong from Shanghai on the President Jackson yesterday. It is believed that he is on his way abroad.

LONG LIFE &amp; HAPPINESS

SIX OLD MEN TELL THE SECRET.

By SIR DAVID MURRAY.

"The Grand Old Man of Painting," who is 85 years old.

LONG life and happiness depends, I think, more on oneself than on outside chances of fate and fortune. One hears much nowadays of the necessity for "keeping fit," and for this a tremendous amount of exercise is advocated. Personally I consider the modern cult for hardness in sport is very much overdone. It always makes me shudder when I read accounts of people who plunge into the Serpentine on Christmas morning.

After a certain age I am sure that the sensible thing is to take care of oneself. To rest when you feel like it, and never to eat as much as you feel that you would not be able to eat just a little more. Whether one should continue to take wines and spirits is a matter of opinion; I myself have not touched either for some years now, although there is nothing that I like better than a good glass of port.

At one time I always spent several months of the year in Picardy, Normandy or Italy, but now I find that an annual visit to Scotland, my native land, is of great health benefit and not nearly so tiring as travelling abroad.

For the rest I consider that work and friendship are both indispensable if one is to be happy. I am lucky in possessing many staunch friends, and my job is the most fascinating in the world. A landscape painter should be the happiest man alive, for he works in the open air, has no one to bother him, and he does just as he pleases. In fact I have always found that worries and anxieties disappear like magic as soon as I set to work with palette and brush.

By PREBENDARY CARLILE.

Founder and Honorary Chief Secretary of the Church Army.

I am eighty-five. I feel sure that if the opinions of so-called old people can be taken as a secret of long life, agreement will be found on one point only—that the secret is hard work and a vital interest in that work. On most other points, I am sure the discussion will reveal most contradictory opinions.

Some will tell us that tobacco and alcohol are not harmful, but, taken in moderation, may actually be helpful. I neither smoke tobacco nor drink alcohol, and although I am prepared to admit that some smokers and drinkers do live to a great age, I would add that they may have attained even greater years without either.

So far as food is concerned, I like to eat little and often. I don't touch meat now as it doesn't suit me. I am convinced that it is the way one eats rather than what one eats that is really important. I always give myself plenty of time over food.

We hear a lot about a healthy body, and in pursuit of that ideal more and more time is given over to sport. I have never felt the need for that type of recreation. My only real recreation has been change of work, and it is work and interest that keeps one alive.

Never get too comfortable. I have always avoided slippers and easy chairs. At Church Army Headquarters my office stool is intentionally high and uncomfortable. I can't fall asleep there, I have to keep on the move; I find work that wants doing, and workers that ought to be set to work. I always try to travel alone; a week or so ago I went to Plymouth and back in one day all alone. A companion would begin to "look after me and make me comfortable." In my case it would be fatal on the spot. Travelling thus helps one to make new friends and to hear other points of view which are useful and interesting. In such ways as these I keep—not half alive, which is another way to saying half dead—but all alive; and I agree with the great man who said a man only dies when he loses the will and the wish to live.

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

Heavy-weight Champion of the World in 1892, now 65 years old.

I do not look within twenty-five years of my age. Some friends, wishing to flatter me, tell me that I look like a man of thirty. I hardly believe that. But if they would tell me I look no older than a man of forty-five I would know they were sincere. There was never a day during my championship period when I felt any better than I feel every day now.

I do not say that I am in as good athletic condition. I would be foolish to think that at sixty-five I could do what I was doing when I was twenty-five. I know some men of my age who are trying that. They are just killing themselves. I think I am wiser than they for I have adapted my physical activities to my age. What I am talking about is real health, not athletic condition.

I have always considered proper eating the keystone of health. My study of diet began fifty years ago, when I was, I think, a weak boy. Tuberculosis settled on me before I was eight years old. The doctor predicted my death, but I fell on a manual of physical exercise and diet. It was the best investment I ever made. At twenty-five I was in perfect health.

Just before my famous contest with John L. Sullivan in 1892, a boxing critic predicted my downfall because he had seen me making a meal of ice-cream. John L. Sullivan was a great eater, but for all my fancy diet as they called it then, I overcame his brawn.

Now I eat a slight breakfast in the morning. All day long I never touch another thing. At six o'clock I have my dinner. I never eat red meat, and only a little chicken or fish about once a week. I do a hundred "bends," back and forward, every night and morning. I stopped training forty years ago and haven't been in a gymnasium since. My simple home exercises keep me fit. Every day I walk from two to five miles. A walk to me means a vigorous exercise.

Get eight hours sleep, nine if you can. For the man who covets youth and health, sleep must be placed alongside proper diet and exercise in importance.

Finally, contentment seems to be one of the first essentials to good health. It is easily acquired. When I was younger I used to fret and fuss if things did not suit me. As I grew older I developed a philosophy of outlook and some of the serenity which you find in many old people.

These, in brief, are my secrets of a youthful and happy old age.

By LORD SYDENHAM OF COOMBE.

I am eighty-four years of age, and I attribute my long life and general good health to moderation in all things—continuous hard work, and many and varied interests and studies.

With regard to health I am not a faddist, possibly because I have never had time to be; but I smoke very little, drink a small quantity with lunch and dinner, and sleep as long as circumstances will allow. Although I am not fussy about my food, I do not eat meat. Fish and poultry, plenty of green vegetables and light egg dishes is the diet which appears to suit me best.

Public service in one form or another has always been of vital importance to me, but apart from this work there have always been many recreations to turn to. Music, painting, and photography, besides literary interests, during the last twenty years. Thus I live a full and industrious life, and keep a mind which is fresh and receptive to new ideas.

To sum up, in my opinion the best recipe for a long and happy life is to work hard and always, and by devoting your mind to public interests prevent "concentration upon yourself."

By SIR JAMES CRICHTON-BROWNE.

I am over ninety years of age, and am well and fit. There is no aspect of life which I cannot enjoy, and if you were to ask me to what I owe my good health I would sum it up in one word—moderation.

I have no fads at all in life. I am not a vegetarian, and I am not (Continued on Page 9.)

"The boss wants me to quit work and marry him—but I'm going to wait until I get my two weeks' vacation with pay."

OTTAWA WHEAT AS A BONE OF CONTENTION

DIFFICULTIES ARISE AT OUTSET

CURRENCY ISSUE

Ottawa, July 25. Wheat appears to have cropped up in the Imperial Conference discussions as a severe hurdle.

The delegates to the Conference have had an extremely busy day behind closed doors, the earliest result of the conversations being confidence among the Dominion's delegates that the Dominions will displace Danish bacon and butter in the British markets.

Wheat, however, appears to be providing a bone of contention inasmuch as while the Dominion representatives want action against the dumping of Russian grain, there is a growing opinion among shippers and millers that the present situation (namely, the milling quota system) is best left unaltered.

CURRENCY AND PREFERENCE.

The Dominion delegates are also inclined to the view that decisions upon preferences will be of little value until the currency question has been settled.

It is reported, however, that both the British and Canadian delegates have expressed the belief that effective action in this connexion must wait the autumn world economic conference.

GODOWN THEFT GANG

TWO MEMBERS SENT TO GAOL

Consequent on the report of thefts from the Kowloon Godowns, two coolies were brought before Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning, charged with theft of 11 packets of plane blades. Inspector Elston said the first defendant hid himself inside the godown one night, and when the gates were opened the next morning, he passed the blades to the second defendant who went out and tried to pawn them. The police suspected that the first defendant was the leader of a dangerous gang of godown thieves, and asked his Worship to impose a heavy penalty.

Mr. C. M. Manners, of the Godown company, who was in Court asked his Worship to make an example of the defendants.

It was revealed that the first defendant served a month's imprisonment in June, and the second, six weeks in the same month.

His Worship: You have not let the grass grow under your feet after your discharge, have you?

The first defendant was sentenced to four months and the second to two.

RAW TOBACCO LEAVES

CAUTION GIVEN FOR POSSESSION

When a Hunan Chinese was charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones to-day with the possession of a quantity of raw tobacco leaves on which duty had not been paid, the question was raised as to how the defendant could have hoped to dispose of goods of this character.

Revenue Officer Ward, who prosecuted, replied that although in general the leaves could not have been sold except through legitimate dealers, there was at any rate a direct use for it, as he had known the leaves to be chewed and also used by Indians for their hookahs.

His Worship decided that a caution would meet the case, but ordered the confiscation of the leaves.

Philadelphia Fielder Breaks Collar-bone

New York, July 25. No play was possible in the National League to-day, and the Detroit-St. Louis match in the American was called owing to rain, but Philadelphia Athletics managed to beat the Yankees in a keen fight at Shibe Park.

Hans and Mahaffey hit home runs for the Athletics while Lazzeri and Gehrig scored similarly for the Yankees. Cramer (Athletics) broke his collar-bone when he fell in going after a two-bagger by Sewell in the sixth inning.

Other nations have been invited to subscribe, and this brings the total of adherents to eight, including Italy, Belgium, Poland, Hungary and Yugoslavia. (Reuter.)

THE TASK OF LEADERSHIP

MR. BALDWIN ON ITS DIFFICULTIES

Mr. Baldwin delivered an important speech on the duties of political leadership when speaking at the Dorchester Hotel as the guest of the 1900 Club.

He pointed out, by way of preliminary, that it was 29 years since Mr. Joseph Chamberlain opened his great tariff campaign.

"I am a pre-Chamberlain Tariff Reformer," said Mr. Baldwin, "and I worked in that campaign so wholeheartedly and with such vigour that there was not a public house in Kidderminster which I did not know not only through the front door, but through the back door as well."

The thing which had let them down before, and which might happen again, was because the then Tory Government, for some reason best known to them, had neither the courage nor the ability to face the question with regard to revising the law on the Taff Vale decision. That put the whole of the working classes against them and the whole of the Trade Union movement as it had never been before.

Discussing the relationship of the leader of a political party and those of his followers, Mr. Baldwin said: "It is a strange position—the leader of a great party—I want to make one or two observations on the necessary differences of opinion which must at times arise between a leader and his party. What I am going to say may be true of all parties, but it is certainly true of ours."

"The only classical equivalent to a party leader is the life of the priest Naemi, the slayer, who shall himself be slain." (Laughter.)

"When a man becomes leader of a party he becomes a potential Prime Minister, and the chances are that before he has long been leader of a political party he will add to that responsibility the responsibility of being Prime Minister."

"Then, for the first time in his life he learns what real responsibility is, and it is not responsibility to his party only. It is responsibility to his country and responsibility to the whole world. 'No small wonder that a leader sometimes' has to take a wider view—I do not use the word wider in any sense of superiority, but in the breadth of decision. He has to take matters into consideration which could not enter into the minds of the rank and file."

"That is the reason why historically you will find differences which have been legitimately expressed—I make no complaint about them in regard to my own leadership—against various leaders."

"They were made against Lord Salisbury's father; they were made against Lord Balfour, and against Mr. Bonar Law. It is inevitable, but in a few years some of you who are young now may remember, when you are tempted to find fault, to think whether it is not worth while to place yourself in the position of the man who, perhaps in Opposition, you elected to lead you."

United Party.

"There were two things I tried to set before myself when I became leader. One was to restore and maintain the unity of the party. The other was to see that the policy of that party became the policy of the country. 'Whatever the case in the past and whatever it may be in the future, our party is more solidly united from top to bottom than in any period during my recollection. (Cheers.)"

"Party unity is not as simple a matter as it would appear. 'You have to reconcile the Toryism of the North and the Toryism of the South, the Toryism of agriculture and the Toryism of industry. We are reconciling them slowly to-day."

"There is a good deal to be done, and it is one of the tasks on which we shall have to ask for patience and sympathy, but it can be done, and it is going to be done."

Speaking of tariff policy, Mr. Baldwin asked: "What is it that has brought about Protection in this country? It is world conditions. It was the prospects of disaster in this country last autumn which made Protection no longer a party policy, but a national policy. The protective system has been brought back because it is in the interest of all classes."

"I am proud to be the leader of the party when this policy for which we worked so long is no longer a party policy, but an important policy of the land with a Labour Prime Minister, a Conservative Chancellor of the Exchequer and a Liberal President of the Board of Trade."

"By common consent of this country the new policy is going to be given a fair trial. If, as I believe, the experience of the first few years proves that it is in the

DOES SHORT-WAVE RADIO CAUSE NERVES?

DOCTOR WAITING FOR PROOF

Is the continual growth in the number and activity of wireless stations tending to produce a generation of irritable men and women?

That is a question which is being forced more and more on the consideration of doctors and research workers not only in London but also throughout the world.

They are asking whether the continual and artificial disturbance in the ether is not showing itself in some slight but general disturbance of the nervous system.

An expert who has been closely associated with recent research into short-wave wireless beams said to a reporter:

"It is extremely likely that short-waves, those of less than one metre in length, could have a prejudicial effect on the nervous system."

Fatal to Mice and Birds.

"Marconi, who has recently been experimenting with them, has spoken of them as being fatal to mice and birds. They certainly cause a rise in temperature in anyone who gets in their way."

"I have also heard it said by research workers who have been exposed to them at very close range over a long period, that they produced a vague feeling of irritability."

"But there is no evidence that there is any effect from long-wave transmission, such as is used for broadcasting, or even from short waves at more than a few yards from the transmitter. The effect at 1,000 yards would be far less than a thousandth part of the effect at one yard."

May Be Beneficial.

A West End neurologist who has made a lifelong study of the more obscure nervous troubles, said: "There is no proof at present that the rapid growth of wireless broadcasting is having any effect on the nervous system of men and women."

"But I am expecting almost any day now to find some indication that the constant electrical disturbance in the ether is having an effect on the nerves of the population."

"In recent years we have learned more and more to regard the nervous system as electrically affected."

"It is just possible that the effect may be beneficial. It is also pretty certain that the nervous system could adjust itself to any new influence that might be set up by wireless waves."

MEANS TEST SURPRISE

COMMITTEE TO GO

An official is to be appointed by the Minister of Labour (Sir Henry Balfour) to take over the duties now performed by the Rotherham Public Assistance Committee. This action follows complaints regarding the administration of the unemployment means test in the area.

In a letter to the Rotherham Borough Council—which has a Labour majority—the Minister says:

"The determinations which your Council have continued to give in many cases indicate a serious disregard of statutory requirements that an applicant for transitional benefit must prove that he is in need of assistance by way of such payments, and the Minister can now only assume that your Council do not intend to carry out their obligations under the Order in Council."

"In these circumstances, the Minister is of opinion that your Council are not efficiently carrying out the duties imposed on them by the Order in Council."

Sir Henry Balfour later received a deputation from the Council which urged him to reconsider his decision.

MAKING A CHAMPION TENNIS PINNACLE NOT A BIRTH RIGHT.

Watching such players as Borotra, Perry, Austin, Mrs. Moody, and Mrs. Whittingstall at Wimbledon, one is led to believe that the fluent strokes they possess and the clever tactics they display on the courts are entirely natural; that, to them, in fact, lawn tennis is a gift.

Nothing is further from the truth. A lawn tennis champion is not born—he has to make himself by hard and sound practice, and he can only maintain his skill, when once he has arrived, by still more practice.

As a matter of fact, the only natural qualities essential to a champion are a good head and a good eye, good lungs, and fairly good muscles. Thousands of tennis players possess these qualities and could become champions if they had the leisure, willingness and intelligence to learn correct strokes, to plan good tactics, and to develop good strategy.

There are very few junior tournaments in France, and very few handicap events. Young players are rightly kept to friendly games and to practice; if they enter open tournaments they are quickly beaten.

"LIKE FATHER...."

HAGEN? The name's familiar! ... Walter Hagen, Jr., putting at Fresh Meadows, displays golfing form not unlike that of his famous father.

I think this policy of the French Federation is wise writes Rene Lucost. Too much tournament play is not good for a youngster: it spoils his style and tires him physically, and anyone who becomes "junior champion" soon thinks that he has nothing to learn—that he will naturally become a real champion. And that, of course, is a complete fallacy: it takes from five to ten years of hard work to learn correct strokes, and even real champions have to work hard to make their strokes better and better.

FRIENDLY PRACTICE.

A young player must always practise more than he plays: that is to say, he must spend many more hours in improving his strokes than in using them to win games and sets. I believe that I owe most of my skill to the hundreds of hours that I have spent in playing against various walls. And I must thank the wall against which I played this spring for my decent play in the French championship.

The French "Musketeers" always owed much of their good form to their friendly practice games: we always play without knowing too much about the score, with the idea of practising our weakest strokes rather than using our best ones. Practising with Borotra, I play from the net while he stays at the back of the court, and Cochet and Brugnon deliberately exchange backhands whenever they practise together. The same friendly spirit certainly helps the English and American players to improve their strokes whenever they practise between themselves, but I suspect that that is not very often: there are too many tournaments in England.

Of course, a young player does need tournament experience—I would say even the experience of foreign tournaments. And I am certain that Perry, Austin, and Hughes owe most of the improvement in their play to the various tours which were arranged for them by the English Association. But a sound balance must always be maintained between practice and tournament play if one wishes to go on improving and to avoid staleness.

JAPAN AND THE OLYMPICS CONFIDENCE IN TRACK STARS SUCCESS EXPECTED

Japan's political and military affairs have not checked preparations for sending the nation's strongest athletic forces to Los Angeles for the Olympic Games.

Having broken through for the first time to win a gold medal in the track and field competition, through the triumph of little Mikio Oda in the hop, step and jump at Amsterdam four years ago, Japan now envisions a much wider range of conquest.

The land of the rising sun this year has high hopes of sweeping the first three places in the hop, step and jump, capturing the broad jump, giving the Americans real contests in the pole vault and high jump, besides competing on even terms with the Finnish distance runners for the classic marathon laurel-wreath.

TRACK BIGGEST AIM.

Oda has surpassed himself in preparing to defend the triple jump title. He beat the world record of A. W. Winter of Australia with a distance of 51 feet, 1 1/2 inches in the national Japanese championships last October.

In the same meet Chuhel Nambu broad-jumped 26 feet, 2 1/4 inches, two inches beyond the world record held by Sylvio Cator of Haiti. Nambu and another jumper, Oshima, are both capable of 50 feet in the hop, step and jump, so that Japan will be amply fortified in this field event.

STRONG IN OTHER JUMPS.

Kimura, the high jumper with a mark of more than 6 feet 5 inches and Nishida, who has pole vaulted 13 feet 7 inches, are looked upon as contenders in specialties usually dominated by the Americans.

Japan took two of the first six places in the 1928 marathon, with Yamada fourth and Tsuda sixth. They might have done better had they rated their pace a little better through the early stages but both dropped back after alternating in the lead much of the way. Out of the pack the Algerian, El Ouafi, galloped to victory.

The recent performances of two new marathoners, Takahashi and Yahagi, have rekindled Japanese hopes. Both, in the official try-out, bettered the Olympic record of 2:32:35 4/5, set by Hannes Kolehmainen of Finland in 1920. Yahagi was timed in 2:31:31 and Takahashi in 2:32:26.

SWIMMING

CANTABS BEAT OXFORD

"DARK BLUES" WIN POLO

There was a great gathering at the Bath Club when Oxford and Cambridge met in the annual swimming and water-polo fixture. As expected Cambridge won all the swimming events, but in the 50 and 100 yards events the Old Pauline, J. E. Durkin, put up performances much speedier than expected.

In the 50 yards Durkin led at the turn, then Bowman drew level, and ten yards from the finish both were fighting hard, but Bowman's arm came through very quickly for the touch, and this just gave the verdict to Cambridge.

In the 100 yards Newbold went clean away from the start in an effort to beat the Varsity record of 57 3/5 sec. At half-distance he led Durkin by two yards, with Bowman a yard away in third place. There was no change until the last length, when Bowman sprinted, but he failed to catch Durkin, while Newbold failed to equal record by the narrow margin of 1-5 sec.

The burly Stortford Coleman had an easy journey in the 440 yards, drawing away from the Cambridge second string, R. L. Armstrong, after passing the 100 yards mark. P. G. Bostock, who swam first string for Oxford, struck a particularly bad patch, as he was 20 sec. below form and actually finished fourth.

Oxford won the water polo by 5 goals to 1. Britton scored four goals and Durkin one for Oxford. Newbold scored for Cambridge.

Results: 50 yards.—W. P. Bowman (Rowdom College, U.S.A., and Clure), 1; J. E. Durkin (St. Paul's and Queen's), 2; L. T. Stevenson (Clifton and Balliol), 3; G. H. Baines (Charterhouse and St. John's), 4. Time, 25 3/5 sec. Won by 6 inches.

100 yards.—J. C. Newbold (Bishop's Stortford and Trinity), 1; J. E. Durkin, 2; W. P. Bowman, 3; M. L. Underhill (Shrewsbury and Queen's), 4. Times, 57 4/5 sec. Won by 2 yards.

440 yards.—F. Coleman (Bishop's Stortford and Emmanuel), 1; R. L. Armstrong (Brighton and Emmanuel), 2; W. Koren (Princeton and Queen's), 3; P. G. Bostock (Charterhouse and Queen's), 4. Won by 12 yards.

Relay, 300 yards.—Cambridge 1, Oxford 2. Cambridge led throughout to win by 2 yards.

DOUMER'S SLAYER ON TRIAL.

FACTS OF SHOOTING NOT IN DISPUTE

Paris, July 25.

The assassination of M. Paul Doumer, President of France, on May 6 had a sequel this afternoon, when the trial of the assassin, Gorgoulloff, a Russian, began.

The court was crowded with distinguished people and the populace packed the streets.

After the reading of the indictment, Gorgoulloff's counsel pointed out that while three experts for the prosecution found the accused sane, three experts for the defence were convinced that Gorgoulloff was insane.

The possibility of Gorgoulloff's escaping the guillotine entirely depends on the medical evidence, as the facts of the shooting are undisputed.—Reuter.

rather ill at ease. The girl who faced him was tall and slender. Her dress of black woollen stuff had a nun-like frill of white at the throat. The man noticed that her skin had an extraordinary, translucent fairness and that she wore no makeup. Her eyes were enormous.

As the girl advanced Dunbar began to speak quickly and glibly. It Susan was not the sort of person he had expected to see, he gave no sign. His method of attack was simple. He would play on her better feeling. He would make her see that marriage with a penniless boy would be quite different from marriage to the heir of millions.

"I'm Bob Dunbar's father," he began. Susan was not surprised. From Bob the night before she had heard the whole story. "I don't want you to think," the man pursued winningly, "that I've come here in an antagonistic mood. On the contrary, I feel very friendly toward you and now that I've seen you I must applaud my son's taste."

He seated himself at her invitation. "I only want to make it quite clear that there were good reasons for my behaving as I did when my son told me his plans. Robert is, I'm afraid, very impulsive, and," here he shook his head sadly, "extremely fickle. Perhaps you do not know that he is virtually bound in another agreement." He paused to let the words sink in.

Susan said, "I'm afraid I don't quite understand."

Mr. Dunbar smiled. "Of course you don't, my dear young lady," he assured her. "The scamp would never tell you about himself."

"If you mean Denise Ackroyd, I do know all about that," Susan said quietly.

The man's jaw dropped. "Oh, you do! Then I know you're going to be sensible about it. If you're fond of my son you won't want to stand in his way. His mother and I feel deeply on the subject of his marrying Denise. In fact his whole future depends upon it. His grandfather's money is being held in trust for him. Robert will receive it when he is 25 on the condition that he marries with our approval. You see?" He smiled at her.

 (To Be Continued).

THIRTEEN DAYS

EXPERIMENTAL AIR MAIL.
PROVES SUCCESSFUL.

An experimental mail sent by Hongkong postal officials to London, via the Saigon-Marseilles air route, reached its destination in 13 days.

The mail, which consisted of only 16 letters, was despatched from Hongkong to Saigon by the Messageries Maritimes liner Athos II, on June 7. The letters arrived at Saigon on June 10, and were despatched next day by air mail, arriving at Marseilles at 7 p.m. on June 19. They were immediately forwarded to Paris, where the regular Imperial Airways service, picked them up and transmitted them to London. They arrived there on June 21. The actual transit time between Hongkong and London was 13 days, and between Saigon and London, 10 days.

The average transit time for mail to the United Kingdom via the Siberian route is 20 days, although mail has been received in London 18 days after despatch from Hongkong. The air service thus shows a saving of from five to 10 days.

Service Open to Public.

Postal officials stated yesterday that specially superscribed mail will now be sent via the Saigon-Marseilles air route, on prepayment of the requisite air mail charges, which, in addition to the ordinary rates of postage, are:

Destination	Rate per 1/2 oz.
Siam	15 cts.
Burma	25 cts.
Persia	75 cts.
Iraq	95 cts.
Palestine	$1.05
Greece	$1.20
Italy	$1.35
France	$1.35
Great Britain & Irish Free State	$1.35

Air mail charges may be prepaid with Hongkong stamps. The air mail service leaves Saigon every Saturday, and postal officials here will utilise every available means to connect with the service. Letters will be despatched from Hongkong to Saigon by steamer, and will be handled over there to the aerial service.

Proposed Direct Service.

The present service is distinct from the proposed direct service by air between Saigon and Hongkong, tentatively arranged by the Compagnie Francaise Air Orient, the French company operating the Saigon-Marseilles service. The first of the experimental flights between Saigon and Hongkong will be made soon.

'Large' tri-motored Breguet monoplanes are utilised in the service between Saigon and Marseilles, and, in addition to carrying air-mail, carry passengers and cargo. The machines leave Saigon every Saturday morning and arrive at Marseilles on the Sundays of the following week.

From time to time there have been projects to link Hongkong and outside centres by air. In 1924 a Chinese syndicate with a capital of $200,000 for the purpose of starting a service between the Northern port and Hongkong.
Nothing came of the project and another service, which was mooted in the next year, also came to naught.

HAIG STATUE UNVEILED

DAUGHTER'S STRIKING TRIBUTE

Just the one word "Haigh," the name by which his school chums knew him, is the inscription on the life-size statue of the great Field-Marshal, which was unveiled by Lady Alexandra Haig, his eldest daughter, at Clifton College, Bristol.

Before she released the Union Jack, Lady Alexandra Haig referred to her father's, and the nation's pride in her father, and asked the boys to regard the statue as a memorial, not to one man only, but also to the men he loved and the cause he served.

"I hope," she said, "that future generations of Cliftonians will not only look upon this statue of my father and think of him with pride and esteem, but also I should like them to think of him as one of themselves, as one whose character was welded in the same school and on the same playing fields, as one who tried to live up to high standards in life, as one who never forgot the friends who deserved well of him, and, lastly, as one who could meet with triumph and disaster, and treat these two impostors just the same."

Field-Marshal Sir William Birdwood, Bart., president of the Old Cliftonians Society, in presenting the statue to the school, said he had been with Earl Haig at school, in India, South Africa, and the Great War. Steadfastness, courage, and honour were the factors which dominated his character throughout his life, and these, under his consideration for those with him, enabled him to serve his country so magnificently, not only during the War, but also in the burden of the after years.

LIFE ON PLANET VENUS?

"PROBABLY IN LARGE AMOUNTS"

Washington, June 30.
Evidence that there may be life on the planet Venus—the discovery that carbon dioxide is "probably present in large amounts" in the planet's atmosphere—is announced by the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

Carbon dioxide is essential to life as we know it on earth, especially, plant life. Discovery of the gas on Venus is not a sure indication that life exists there, the announcement says, but it does show that one of the conditions essential to life seems to be present.

The discovery is more evidence of the close resemblance between the earth and Venus, which sometimes is called the "earth's twin sister," although it is a little smaller. Venus has about four-fifths the mass or weight of the earth, is two-thirds as far from the sun, and has a gravity pull about four-fifths as powerful. It is believed to have a solid surface.

Discovery of the probable presence of carbon dioxide on Venus was made at the Carnegie Institution's Observatory at Mount Wilson, California.

"This discovery, if fully substantiated, is of marked scientific interest for two reasons," said the Carnegie announcement. "It will have been the first time a gas of any kind has been identified in the spectra of any of our planets; and it indicates that one of the essentials to life as we know it on this earth may exist in the atmosphere of Venus."

The Mount Wilson astronomers identified the carbon dioxide across millions of miles of space with a spectroscopic. The light from Venus (really reflected sunlight) was focused by the 100-inch telescope on the slit in the spectroscopic, splitting it into its different colours.

When the light passed through Venus's atmosphere, some of it was absorbed by the carbon dioxide. This is shown in the spectrum by a dark line or "absorption band." The position of the band in the spectrum shows what gas did the absorbing.

GERMAN STREET FIGHTING

THREE TO FOUR KILLED EVERY DAY

Cologne.
Practically everyone here now speaks of the Nazi-Communist street fighting as differing very little from civil war.

Recent clashes in west Germany took their usual toll of wounded. In Dulsburg the disturbances followed the funeral of a Communist who had been killed in earlier fighting. At Dortmund reds attacked a lorry containing thirty Nazis and wounded the lot of them. At Gerresheim some Nazis fired from a train and wounded a passing cyclist.

To what extent adherents of the Socialist party are participating in the attacks on the uniformed Nazis is difficult to judge, as the tendency is to assume that the aggressors are invariably Communists. The Communists, not being in uniform makes it difficult to distinguish the "civilian" Socialists who may join in the fray. That the Socialists have taken up a fighting attitude, however, is confirmed by reports of Reichsbanner and Iron Front members coming into collision with their Nazi enemies.

Since the re-establishment of Hitler's troops, the Communist attitude to the Nazis has grown even more ferocious. Whether there is any truth in the Nazis' allegation that it is being directed by Russian agents on the spot is not very clear. The governing authorities of the Dusseldorf area, which includes part of the Ruhr, says there is not. They would know if such agents had arrived on the scene.

The same authorities state that reports of disturbances are much exaggerated. That may be true in some cases. But the number killed in West Germany seems to be averaging three to four a day, to say nothing of the dozens of injured.

The latest form of Communist reprisal is to seize an isolated Nazi "soldier," strip off his uniform, burn it, and send the man off dressed only in his vest and pants. Two instances of uniform stripping were reported in Cologne papers recently.

KOWLOON D'K TUG RAMMED & SUNK IN HARBOUR

DE VALERA'S NEW MOVE

SPECIAL MISSION FOR MINISTER

LONDON VISIT

TARIFF WAR DUTIES ANNOUNCED

Dublin, July 25. Mr. de Valera has taken another dramatic step in connexion with the Anglo-Irish situation, the exact significance of which is, at the moment, merely the subject of conjecture.

Mr. Hugo Flynn, the Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Finance, has left for London on a special Government mission. Nothing has been disclosed regarding the purpose of the visit beyond a statement that it is "Very Important."

Meanwhile, a schedule of duties under the Emergency Duties Bill has been announced, becoming effective as from to-morrow, July 26.

The Irish Free State, under the schedule, impose inter alia, a duty of Five shilling a ton on coal;

Twenty-five per cent. ad valorem on cement;
Twenty per cent. on electrical apparatus;
Twenty per cent. on iron and steel;
Twenty-eight shillings per cwt. on sugar and molasses;
A farthing a pound, or three-pence a gallon on sweetened foods and drinks.

CONFUSING ORDERS.

Some confusion was created by the fact that to-night's emergency duties were issued in two instalments, one of them making reference to Imperial Preference.

This reference created confusion regarding the countries to which the new duties were intended to apply, but it was later explained that the duties on iron and steel, coal, cement, etc., as above, would apply only to Great Britain, but that the other duties announced, affecting articles of food such as bacon and potatoes, would have a general application.

EFFECT OF DUTIES.

London, July 26. An effort to combine retaliation with the desire to find markets outside the United Kingdom, is the verdict of London political circles on the new Irish duties, which are, however, less extensive than anticipated and apply only to about £3,000,000 worth, equivalent to about one-third of the Free imports.

The commodities affected include some in which Britain is already facing very severe competition, for instance, coal. An authority on the coal trade stated that if the Irish market was lost as a result of the tariff, this would be equivalent to throwing eight thousand miners out of employment.

SPECIAL EXEMPTIONS.

Mr. de Valera does not expect the price to rise, but in the event of an unjustified increase, the Government will deal with the matter.

It is noteworthy that certain exemptions are made in respect of Northern Ireland, while the Isle of Man, which has not imposed duties on Free States products, is exempt entirely from the provisions.

Mr. de Valera is undertaking a tour of the Free State in furtherance of his policy, and meanwhile, the Cosgrave Party, meeting in Dublin, passed a resolution condemning the efforts to stamper the country and calling upon all patriots to demand peace before it is too late.—Reuter.

RUN DOWN BY LOCAL STEAMER

THREE MISSING: MR. F. J. JENNER'S ESCAPE

HIRUNDO TOW TRAGEDY

Three Kowloon Dock employees lost their lives last night, it is feared, when the tug-tender Edith, assisting the Henry Keswick to tow the disabled s.s. Hirundo into harbour, was rammed and sunk by the Canton steamer Tin Yat.

The tow had progressed to a point between Green Island and Stonecutters Island when the tragic misadventure befel the Edith. She was badly holed and sunk rapidly. Three members of her crew were later found to be missing. Mr. F. J. Jenner, the master of the Edith, was, with the others rescued, in the water for some time.

It was some time after the collision that assistance was forthcoming. The Tin Yat was the first vessel to reach the men struggling in the water, but some difficulty in rescuing them was experienced owing to the darkness and the fact that they had drifted apart.

Mr. F. J. Jenner was in the water for half an hour before he was picked up and found that nine other members of his crew were also safe.

Three Chinese are missing, believed to have been drowned.

OFFICIAL ENQUIRY.

The circumstances of the tragedy will be the subject of official investigation. Details of the collision at the present are scanty.

The mishap occurred when the s.s. Hirundo, which was disabled during the recent typhoon blow, was being brought into harbour by the tug Henry Keswick, with the assistance of the steam tender Edith. The Keswick was towing in front, with the Edith on the starboard side of the steamer.

RAPIDLY SINKS.

Just as the disabled ship and the tugs were entering the harbour from the western entrance, the s.s. Tin Yat, which was on her way to Canton, under Capt. W. Perremit, collided with the Edith. The Edith began to take in water rapidly and soon sank.

Those rescued were transferred to the Henry Keswick and were taken ashore, while the Tin Yat continued on her voyage.

POLICE SEARCH.

Police launches arrived on the scene some little time after the mishap and instantly instituted a search for the missing men, but although the vicinity of the sunken tender was thoroughly

MANCHURIA'S "HIGH COMMISSIONER"

Control of Army and of Foreign Affairs

Tokyo, July 26.

For the purpose of unifying Japanese Administration in Manchuria, the Cabinet has decided that the Commander-in-Chief be provisionally appointed Special Envoy, with plenipotentiary powers, and shall be ex-officio Governor of Kwantung, with control of the South Manchuria Railway.

As Special Envoy, he will be placed under the direction and control of the Foreign Minister and will take charge of foreign affairs, supervising the Japanese Consuls in Manchuria.

It is expected that General Muto will be appointed to this important post.

The Cabinet also decided to appoint Mr. Akira Arisaka, the former Ambassador to Brazil as Minister to China, and Count Hirotsugu Hayashi as President of the South Manchuria Railway.

searched, no trace of them could be found.

At present the Edith lies about a quarter of a mile West North West of the Central Fairway, and an effort is to be made this afternoon to find the bodies of the missing who may have been trapped.

HIRUNDO MISHAP.

The mishap to the Hirundo resulted from the vessel being caught on the outskirts of the typhoon on Saturday. She was about 250 miles south of Hongkong, and experienced very rough weather all day.

The steamer was faced with a very serious situation when, in consequence of the pounding she had received, the rudder bar was suddenly carried away. This left the ship helpless, and Capt. Petersen at once sent out an S.O.S.

In response to the call for aid, the Henry Keswick went to the Hirundo's assistance, and, thanks to the tug's direction-finding equipment, no difficulty was experienced in picking up the disabled ship.

This morning, cargo was being moved from the Hirundo, which will immediately go into dock for repairs.

It is recalled that a sister ship of the Hirundo, the Hiram, met with a similar mishap in the same locality in November, 1930, when, as in the present case, assistance had to be sent out from Hongkong.

CHALLENGE DECLINED

POLICE AND SPEED TEST

Mr. L. H. Moorman, an owner driver, who last week issued a novel challenge to the traffic authorities that he would prove by demonstration that it was impossible for him to have driven around a bend on the Causeway Bay Road at a speed of 35 miles an hour without coming to grief appeared again before Mr. Schofield this morning, in answer to a charge of dangerous driving.

Mr. Moorman had previously requested that Police representatives should sit in the car while he gave the demonstration, but was informed to-day that the invitation had been declined. "The Police strongly object to holding such an experiment," he was told by the Magistrate.

Mr. Moorman suggested, as an alternative, that if the Police did not want to be in the car while the test was carried out, they might care to clock his speed and so prove he could not have attained the speed alleged.

The Magistrate: They object against the experiment in any form. Do you wish to bring any further evidence?

Defendant said he could bring other people who had driven around the bend and could testify to his contention.

The summons was again adjourned.

UGLY SCENE AT BURNLEY

STRIKES AND STRIKE THREATS

WAGE REDUCTIONS RESISTED

(Reuter's Special Service).

London, July 26.

Ugly scenes occurred at Burnley to-day where thousands went on strike and demonstrators attacked some women who were leaving a mill. The police were compelled to charge the mob.

Burnley is a city of idle mills to-day as the result of the strike, which has been embarked upon by the mill-hands as a protest against wages reductions amounting to twelve and a half per cent., 2/6 in the £1.

FIFTY MILLS AFFECTED.

Out of the town's sixty mills, only about ten, which have separate agreements, started work to-day, while a number of mills were completely idle.

A dangerous situation was created when a number of women weavers, who had gone to work, were attacked on trying to leave one of the affected mills. Demonstrators rushed them and one woman was knocked down and badly injured.

Others were roughly handled, but the police were soon on the scene and cleared the demonstrators.

OTHER TROUBLE IMMINENT.

Trouble is expected in other centres. Nine weaving firms at West Houghton and Leigh, employing about five thousand hands have decided to give a week's notice of a wages reduction equal to 1/7 in the pound.

Simultaneously, five manufacturers, employing two thousand hands in the fine cotton trade, which has hitherto been immune from labour troubles, have given notice of a 12½ per cent. reduction in wages.

EX-KING'S LAST RESTING-PLACE

BODY TO BE SENT TO PORTUGAL

London, July 25.

The body of ex-King Manoel is to be carried from England to Portugal in the British cruiser Concord.

The British Government recently offered to place a British warship at the disposal of the Portuguese Government for carrying the body of the ex-King to his native land, and the Portuguese Government have gratefully accepted the offer.

H.M.S. Concord will sail from Portsmouth on a date to be announced, when arrangements are completed. Ex-King Manoel's body has rested since the funeral Fifteen million forms and letters had to be sent out in connexion with the war loan conversion scheme. They were printed and despatched in 24 hours, a wonderful achievement. Photo shows printers cutting and packing the forms.—(Times copyright).

RESCUED FROM DROWNING

NARROW ESCAPE

The story of how a Hongkong lady, Mrs. G. Lane, was saved from drowning by the prompt and courageous action of Mr. W. H. Heytman, acting manager of the Vacuum Oil Co., Ltd., in Singapore, is told in Straits papers just to hand.

It appears that Mrs. Lane, who was on a visit to Singapore from Hongkong, was bathing off the Sea View Hotel on Tuesday last when she got into difficulties. She was first noticed by a Chinese boy, floating face downwards. He raised the alarm, and Mr. Heytman, after taking off only his coat and shoes, sprang into the water, and brought the bather ashore. She was unconscious when taken out of the water but revived slightly after artificial respiration had been tried.

Mr. Heytman was sitting on the lawn in front of the hotel with his wife and two other people when the Chinese boy gave the alarm. He was pointing to something in the water.

Mr. Heytman together with several other people, jumped up to see what was the matter, and the figure of a bather—the only one in the water—could be seen floating face downwards. Mr. Heytman immediately rushed along the side of the pagoda, taking off his

WEEK'S CHOLERA CASES

21 IN THE LATEST LIST

Twenty-one cases of cholera were notified to the Colony's health authorities last week. Of these, two were imported. Deaths totalled seven only. A further six cases were reported yesterday, of which one was imported.

Apart from cholera, the sick list was not heavy last week. There were two fatal cases each of meningitis and typhoid, one fatal occurrence of diptheria and one death from small-pox. Deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis totalled seventy-nine.

INDIA PLANS TO STEM FLOOD

SPECIAL TARIFF ON PIECE-GOODS

WAR LOAN CONVERSION

SCHEME ALREADY A SUCCESS

London, July 25.

Over one thousand million pounds' worth of the Five Per Cent. War Loan has already been converted to three and half per cent. under the Government's conversion scheme.

A statement to this effect was made to-day by the Financial Secretary to Treasury, Major Elliott. He also mentioned that of the 2,600,000 holders of this stock 1,587,000 had, up to the present, assented to conversion. The dissenters numbered only 115,000, representing only two per cent.

This means that 298 of this stock is being converted for every two pounds that is not.

This is the last week for bonus conversion and every post continues to bring in scores of thousands of assents. Major Elliott said that the response so far has been very satisfactory and the operation was already assured of success. In a letter to General Seely regarding the conversion scheme, the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, said: "Nothing has been more striking in recent weeks than the impression the whole conception of the scheme has made on the minds of other countries."

British Wireless.

ABOLITION OF THE TAEI

THREE FOREIGNERS ON COMMITTEE

Shanghai, July 26.

Mr. T. V. Soong, the Minister of Finance, who has been busily engaged since his arrival in Shanghai in conferring with the customs authorities and local bankers on the seizure of the Manchurian Customs revenues and the proposed abolition of the tael, is expected to leave in a day or two for Nanking.

It is believed that he will remain in the capital for a few days only, later leaving for Peking. The Committee appointed by Mr. T. V. Soong to study the problem of the abolition of the tael must decide upon a fixed price for the dollar after the tael has been abolished, its weight and the measures to be taken for enlisting public support for the change.

The Committee includes three foreigners, including Mr. E. Kann, who is a noted Far Eastern economist.—Reuter.

CHIEF SECRETARY OF CEYLON

MR. F. G. TYRELL GETS POSITION

London, July 25.

The Colonial Office announces that Mr. F. G. Tyrell, Deputy Chief Secretary at Ceylon, has been elected for appointment as Chief Secretary to the Ceylon Government, in succession to Sir Bernard Bourdillon, who has been appointed

BREAKING POSTAL BLOCKADE

D.K.K. TO ACCEPT LETTERS

WAY OPEN TO THE SIBERIA ROUTE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, July 26.

Japanese control of the one regular fast steamer service between Shanghai and Dairen is a factor which will prevent the Nanking Government's postal blockade of Manchukuo from being made effective.

Although Japanese Consular officials have again affirmed that they do not intend to establish a special mail service between Shanghai and Manchukuo, it is difficult to see how the blockade of the puppet State can escape being nullified.

The Japanese have a far easier and less doubtful method of interfering in the Nanking programme.

D.K.K. LINE'S OFFER.

An official of the Dairen Kisen Kaisha, which runs three fast steamers weekly between Shanghai and Dairen, touching at Tsingtao on the way, has informed the North China Daily News that mail will be accepted on their ships for transmission to Europe, via Dairen.

At Dairen, the D.K.K. will transfer the mail to the South Manchurian Railway and it will be carried across Siberia by the usual method. The letters must be posted aboard the D.K.K. steamers at least half an hour before sailing time.

LITTLE INCONVENIENCE.

From a business point of view the only inconvenience will consist in the fact that the D.K.K. wharves are situated in the Yanktsoo District, several miles from the Bund, but it is very probable that some arrangements will be made to collect the mails at some central point and deliver them to the ships in a batch.—Reuter.

MORE FOOD TAXES

POTATOES TO COST BRITAIN MORE

London, July 25.

Under an additional import duties order, which the Treasury issued to-night on the recommendation of the Imports Duties Advisory Committee, foreign potatoes imported into Great Britain will be chargeable as from midnight on Wednesday next with a duty of £1 per ton.

In the case of new potatoes, imported between the first of November and the thirtieth of June, the duty will be four shillings and eightpence per hundredweight.

These rates are inclusive of the existing general ad valorem duty of ten per cent.

The Advisory Committee will shortly submit a report dealing with horticultural products generally.

They have made recommendations regarding potatoes in advance of this report owing to the recent abnormal importations of potatoes, seriously affecting the British growers whose supplies are available and sufficient to meet requirements.—British Wireless.

In a report to the police, Mrs. Sinclair, of 9, Jordan Road, states that some time between midnight and

The Bidding.

The bidding at practically every table was South one diamond, West passed, North bid one heart, North need not trump with hearts as he can make a One over One by bidding one heart. This suited East and he passed. South bid three clubs, West passed, and North went to three hearts. At some tables, East doubled three hearts, but the smarter declaration was to pass. South would then bid four diamonds, West should not double as he is not prepared to double hearts. North in most cases then went to four No Trump which East doubled. South then bid five diamonds which West doubled, this becoming the final contract at most tables. However some players went to five hearts which, of course, was doubled, practically forcing South to bid six diamonds.

The Play.

West's opening lead was the five of hearts. The jack was played from dummy, East covering with the queen the declarer trumping with the three of diamonds. South the declarer played his ace of clubs and then ruffed the four of clubs in dummy with the five of diamonds. The seven of diamonds was returned from dummy, East playing a spade. South the declarer playing the jack of diamonds which West won with the king of diamonds. West led the seven of spades which the dummy won with the king. The six of hearts was returned from dummy, East played the eight and the declarer trumped with the four of diamonds. West overtrumping with the six of diamonds. West then returned the five of spades which the dummy won with the ace. Declarer returned the six of spades from dummy, East played the ten, declarer trumped with the ten of diamonds, West discarding the ten of clubs.

The declarer cashed his ace and queen of diamonds and his king of clubs but was forced to grant the last two tricks to West, who held the good queen of clubs and the nine of diamonds. Those who had bid five diamonds were defeated two tricks doubled which was 600 points, less 100 honors making their net loss on the hand 500 points.

PORTUGUESE PLAYERS*TO PERFORM AT CLUB DE RECREIO ON THURSDAY

Owing to the inclemency of the weather, the performance that was to have been held at the Club de Recreio on Thursday last had to be postponed and will take place on Thursday.

The performance was in the nature of a farewell by the members of the Tournee Teatral, a group of Portuguese actors who have provided excellent entertainments in Hongkong.

The present troupe of actors have already given several successful performances at the Club de Recreio in Hongkong, and have captivated crowded houses in Macao as well, during the last few months. As readers have already been informed, this company of actors have toured the Portuguese colonies, where they have been enthusiastically received. On the eve of their departure from Macao, they have been requested to give the many friends they made in Hongkong the opportunity of witnessing once more, a final display of typically Portuguese acting.

The programme is sure to please, consisting as it does, of three parts: the first one will be entirely Portuguese folk-songs with explanatory prelude, in Portuguese, which will enhance their interest. The songs, always interesting, will thus be very much more pleasing—fados, folk-songs and lieder will thus be attractively blended.

A melodramatic playette, by the celebrated Portuguese dramatist, Julio Dantas, will form the second part of the programme.

The concluding portion of the evening's entertainment will be a suitable conclusion to this programme, for it will be a splendid comedy entitled "Conde Freddie," with beautiful music.

Colonel Marmaduke Grove, son of a Cornish emigrant to Chile, is shown above in uniform with other members of the Socialist Junta after the short-lived success of his revolutionary enterprise. For a few days, he was virtual dictator of Chile. To-day he is a prisoner.

Safely home again after his near-tragic experience in the Atlantic, Stanley Hausner, the Polish-American airman, is shown here at Miami, descending the gangplank of the freighter Circe Shell which rescued him after he had been adrift for 8 days off the Portuguese coast. Shown with him is the ship's master, Captain James Wilson.

MAN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY.

Susan Carey, 20 and beautiful, is secretly in love with Bob Dunbar, millionaire's son. Danes Ackroyd, who wants Bob for himself, plots to separate them. Susan has been engaged to her former suitor, Ernest Heath, but Heath overheard a conversation between her and Bob and asked her to break the engagement. She finds that as he is boarding a train for New York and there is a reconciliation. Bob tells his father he is going to marry Susan and the older Dunbar is furious. The father goes to see Susan, and tells her it will ruin Bob's life if she marries him.

CHAPTER XLVI

"That's exactly what I mean," said Mr. Dunbar. The faintest shade of regret tinged his voice. Susan sat silent, her hands locked in her lap. Her mind was in confusion. Yesterday everything had been clear sailing. It had all sounded so simple, so easy. Even Bob's report of his father's anger had had a far-away, unreal aspect. Older people were always troubling themselves about things that really didn't matter. Susan had thought. Stocks and bonds, houses and money. What did they count when weighed against her love for Bob? Bob had agreed with her. They would be married very quietly. He had an offer of a job on a ranch in Montana. Some man he had known at college was experimenting with wheat and there was a little tenant house they could have. Susan had thought of herself simply and joyously as a farmer's wife. It had all seemed quite idyllic. Now this purse-proud old man with his talk of inheritances had come to spoil everything.

She felt in a daze. Was it true that her love for Bob would bring him only unhappiness and ill fortune? Would he tire of poverty and of her with it? The poison of the older man's cunning words infected her heart. Perhaps she and

Bob had been fools. Perhaps she had been wrong to think that life could be so simple and straightforward. As they, in their rosy dream, had visioned it. Through her misery dawned the realization that her father had repeated a question. She looked up, her eyes clouded with painful resentment. "I beg your pardon, I'm afraid I wasn't listening."

"Oh!" All the pain and wounded pride of the girl surged to the surface. She stood up proudly and menacingly. She said in a voice that trembled, "I think you'd better go before I say something I'll regret. After all, you are Bob's father."

He was won to reluctant admiration but he could not leave without attempting to justify himself. His carefully moulded sentences flowed on. Susan stared at a point some inches over the man's head, expressionless.

"Don't be afraid," she said bitterly. "I shan't do any harm to your son."

The man, a power in the downtown world of affairs, departed feeling somehow humiliated and routed.

Susan fought a battle with herself that morning. Bob was to come at eight and through alternate chills and fevers she tried to make up her mind what to say to him when he arrived. She had explained to Aunt Jessie who had remained singularly unmoved by the news of the girl's change of plan that the caller had been Bob's father. Aunt Jessie had tactfully refrained from asking questions. She had seemed gentler since her illness. Aunt Jessie was looking forward to making a long visit to her sister who lived in southern Illinois.

"I'm going for a walk," Susan told her abruptly a few minutes later. Scarcely conscious of the direction she was taking, she boarded a street car headed for the business district. She must do something. She must keep active. She stopped at a drug store telephone booth and called Ray Flannery.

Soon you may be able to buy a home as you would an automobile—from a dealer, on time payment, and with a trade in value. For the "mass production" of one storey steel houses, like the one sketched above, is planned by a new corporation formed in New York. The houses are to be made of pressed steel with five and six rooms. Completely equipped with electric refrigeration, heating units, plumbing and wiring, the structures would be sold for $3500 and less at rates of $330 a month.

"Well, stranger, where have you been keeping yourself?" Ray demanded. "I've missed you like the dickens."

"Can you have lunch with me?" Susan asked. Ray agreed with enthusiasm. Half an hour later over the square, white-topped table in a sweet shop Ray stared at Susan with frank interest.

"Come into money or something?" she wanted to know. Susan tried to explain. Her aunt had been ill, she said vaguely, and she had been needed at home. Ray seemed satisfied with this answer.

"Say, the new girl in Heath's office sure is a lemon," Ray continued. "She looks like something the cat dragged in."

Susan smiled. She had heard about Miss Smith from Jack Waring but Ray's description seemed unduly harsh.

"The old man's gone away, I hear," Ray rambled on. "What do you know about that?"

in his pocket address book. It might be handy to have during the next few days.

To his father's surprise and irritation, Bob did not come round. The servants reported that he had returned home around noon, had packed a bag and departed without leaving any word. Mrs. Dunbar was at Hot Springs. She was one of those fretful, chronic invalids. Her husband was relieved that there was no necessity of explaining the situation to her.

After a day of waiting during which his digestion was annoyingly impaired the older man mapped out a course of action. Hard-shelled autocrat that he was, he loved his only son dearly. This open break with Robert disturbed him. Mr. Dunbar decided to see the girl and talk a little sense to her.

He frowned with distaste as his taxi, bumping along the shabby side street, came to a stop. It was just as he had expected—a house in a row of brave, run-down dwellings badly needing paint.

"Wait for me," he commanded the driver. Dunbar rang the bell with some trepidation. It was not a pleasant errand but it was one he must go through with whether or not he liked it.

A lean, gray-haired woman in a spotless blue house dress answered the ring.

"We don't want to buy anything," she began firmly. Then, bearing, she stopped confused.

"I want to see Miss Susan Carey," Dunbar said in his courtliest manner. "Is she in?"

"Oh, yes. I'll call her." The gray-haired woman gave him another penetrating look and then invited him to enter. As the man waited in the small living room he glanced about with annoyance. It was not at all the sort of interior he had expected. The old rosewood chairs, carved and upholstered in the manner of the '80's, had a decent self-respect about them. The whole place reminded him dimly of his mother's front parlor. It was uncompromisingly clean and the frilled white curtains showed no sign of the usual Chicago grime.

SHATIN'S CLINIC.

N. T. MEDICAL SOCIETY'S NEW ENTERPRISE.

In response to the appeal of Chinese villagers in Shatin for the provision of western medical treatment, the New Territories Medical Benevolent Society opened its Shatin Clinic opposite to the Shatin Railway Station on Sunday morning.

The Society, under the supervision of its Chairman, Dr.
Arthur Woo, and the Secretary,
Dr. F. I. Tsung, has also arranged to have an experienced doctor attending at the clinic for the sick villagers every Tuesday and Saturday. No doctors' fee will be charged and even the medicines will be distributed without charge.

There will be a residential nurse in daily attendance at the clinic, which occupies a well ventilated building of two storeys and is within easy reach to the surrounding villages in Shatin.
The nurse will attend to all the dressing work and maternity cases.

The Benevolent Society members are to be congratulated for their charitable enterprise, and it is hoped that the clinic will prove to be a boon for the 4,000 poor and needy villagers living in Shatin.

THE MANCHUKUO BLOCKADE

LATEST JAPANESE DENIAL

Shanghai, July 25.
Officials of the Japanese Con-sulate General this afternoon promptly denied the Chinese allegation that the Japanese authorities were preparing to establish a temporary post office for the transmission of mail to and from Manchuria, although arrangements may be made to transmit the letters of Japanese residents to Manchuria via Dairen aboard Japanese steamers. No formal post office, however, has been planned.

The Chinese authorities, nevertheless, discredit the Japanese denial and contend that from reliable sources it is understood that a meeting will be held this afternoon by the Japanese Consular officials and civilian bodies for the discussion of the plan.

A statement explaining the recent action of closing down the Chinese post offices in the Northeastern provinces, and setting forth detailed measures for the transmission of foreign mails, and the embargo on incoming mails from areas in the military occupation of Japan in Manchuria will be issued this afternoon from the Nanking Ministry of Communications. —Reuter.

Embargo Announced.

Nanking, July 25.
The Ministry of Communications this evening issued a statement announcing the postal embargo on Manchuria. No mails will be sent to Manchuria and stamps issued there will not be recognised. All categories of mail bearing them will be regarded the same as unpaid postage.

The Japanese government are fully responsible for all the inconveniences thus caused, the state-

Inner Georges Philippar is inconclusive.

The Commission considered three possible causes for the disaster, namely, a short circuit in the electrical installation, an accidental fire, or foul play.

It held that the evidence given by the witnesses cited gave no more support to any one of those theories than to the others. —*Reuter's

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRE.

"Condemned to Death," film adaptation of "Jack O' Lantern," opening on Thursday at the Queen's tells of a series of mysterious murders that shock and terrify the country. It appears that one by one all those connected with a case in which the death sentence was passed are being done to death. In the end the judge who tried the case receives warning that his time has come. The police redouble their efforts to solve the problem, and are as surprised as the public.

The picture is good and satisfying entertainment, Walter Forde's direction in capital and the cast without exception give excellent performances, Arthur Wontner heads the list.

"Husband's Holiday."

Most screen stars work toward accumulating enough wealth to retire from the exacting requirements of acting. But Adrienne Ames surrendered the luxurious ease of a rich society girl to become a motion picture actress. Miss Ames, featured in "Husband's Holiday," Paramount romance-drama coming to the King's Theatre next Thursday, might have begun her screen career earlier, had she desired. Studio executives say her dark southern type of beauty photographs admirably. But Miss Ames was "awfully sporting" about it. Sensing that her social prominence and wealth might be taken for a "Club" to gain her special attention, she decided to learn acting from the first rung of the ladder and school herself with minor parts.
She was first signed up through the experience of posing for a nationally known photographer, whose professional credit line, "Ruth Harriet Louise," appears in magazine reproductions from coast-to-coast. Miss Ames, who has toured Europe five times, visiting Monte Carlo, Germany, France, Belgium and England, was en route home from a Honolulu sojourn when she decided to have her own portrait done by this Los Angeles camera artist. A friend who was remembered with one of the copies took it to Paramount's casting director, and without any idea of the lady's position in life, summoned her for a test and tried her out as an "extra."

Her New York apartment is one of the most beautiful in the metropolis, with a terrace large enough to accommodate 500 guests. She maintains a summer home in Westport, Connecticut, where she is also a member of an exclusive club. She now reports for work at 9 a.m. Her most prominent role to date was in "24 Hours," as the woman who stole Kay Francis' gentleman friend away.

"Two Kinds of Women."

Miriam Hopkins and Phillips
Holmes—there's a romantic team!
Miriam, the petite, golden-haired
—a year ago unknown to film fans, now with the admiring movie world at her feet! Holmes, the handsome, the romantic—fresh from triumphs in "The Criminal Code" and "An American Tragedy." They are seen together for the first time in this story of a Western girl who has always yearned to live in and become a part of the glittering, fascinating life of New York City and who gets her wish, to the accompaniment of feverish action dramatic thrills. "Two Kinds of Women," which is now showing at the King's Theatre, is an action-bracer. Hopped up to a high pitch with intense plot-interest, it provides that other quality which makes it perfect entertainment—excellent acting. The supporting cast for the love-pair includes Wynne Gibson, firm-willed villainess at "The Gang Buster," and "June Moon"; Stuart Erwin, lovable purveyor of wistful comedy characterizations; Irving Pichel, vigorous actor who put a new meaning into "strong acting" with his delineation—of the prosecutor in "An American Tragedy"; Stanley Fields, believably treacherous bad man in "Street of Chance" and "Ladies Love Brutes"; and Josephine Dunn, blonde leading lady for many of filmdom's greatest actors, returning to the screen after a year's due to illness.

Directed by William C. de Mille, one of the most famous megaphoneists in the business, "Two Kinds of Women" is great talkie entertainment.

"50 Fathoms Deep."

"50 Fathoms Deep," a stirring drama of deep sea adventure, is showing at the Central Theatre to-day.
Here is a picture that has human and exciting moments. Under the direction of William Neill, the production leaves nothing to be desired in the way of realism and the deep sea shots are not only interesting but decidedly thrilling. The sound effects under water are marvelous. The plot is well developed dramatically.

Briefly, this is what happens. Two deep sea divers, Tim Burke and Pinky Caldwell, are staunch friends in spite of their great difference in age and character. The younger one, Pinky, marries a deceitful gold-digger blonde, believing her to be a model for pure womanhood. She causes a rift between the two pals, making them bitter enemies. They are forced to work together again on a wreck—a yacht which is buried in fifty fathoms of water. Tim descends to the wreck in the midst of a raging storm, and discovers the bodies of Pinky's wife and a man-about-town. In his attempt to hide the evidence and spare his pal he is caught in the wreckage and is unable to free himself. Pinky goes down, not so much to help Tim, as to finish their fight. The light that greets him when he reaches bottom convinces him that his wife had framed him, and that Tim was a greater friend than he deserved.

The important part of this film is the underwater stuff. It kept the audience in a perpetual state of excitement and wonder. It is a startling and fascinating revelation of the perilous but adventurous existence of sea divers.
Again Jack Holt comes through with one of his vibrant performances.
What a man he makes this Tim Burke—roistering, bolstering, but with a heart of gold; brawny but brilliant too. Loretta Sayers is hateful as Pinky's deceitful wife. Although new to the screen, she has mastered a difficult assignment; she plays an unsympathetic character with conviction. Richard Cromwell is splendid as Pinky Caldwell. Don't miss this picture. It packs a real wallop.

WAR HORRORS

It is difficult at the moment to judge whether the Disarmament Conference is destined to achieve any really substantial results. The first stage is over, with major issues still to be decided. Something has been accomplished, however, by the delegates agreeing to the prohibition of aerial attacks on civilians and to the abolition of gas and bacteriological warfare. If this means that these points are to be embodied in a new Convention, then there are hopes that the world may be spared almost unspeakable horrors. Despite all that has been written on the subject, it is still true that the average man has a very vague notion of what modern warfare would mean. He realises that somehow the next war will be worse than the last one. He supposes that air raids would be executed on a greater scale, with increased frequency, and across wider distances. He knows that aeroplane bombs are now more powerful than the largest which Zeppelins used fourteen years ago, and he may even have heard of the "death dew." But he possibly imagines that with the aid of gas-masks and underground shelters, together with the protection afforded by fast interceptor planes, the raided cities would not suffer very much more than they did in the Great War.

If we want to get away from lay speculation on the subject and get some insight into the probabilities, we need only take note of the inquiry organised by the Inter-Parliamentary Union at Geneva into the character of a big modern war. A score of experts contribute to this symposium, including soldiers, chemists, psychologists, engineers, financiers, sociologists, and physicians. The book which represents their labours must be regarded as one of the most terrible ever written. Let us observe for a moment what is said about air raids on enemy towns. The number of bombers required to put a large city out of action varies according to the cargo which they carry. One chemical contributor estimates that a couple of machines, distributing a certain chemical, would suffice to put London out of a war. But let it be assumed that a belligerent decides to employ 300 bombing machines against London. The service experts all admit that the majority of these 300 aeroplanes would get over London, possibly at a great height. They would be sent in waves. The first wave would carry high explosive, including individual bombs weighing a ton apiece. The entire squadron would bring far more explosive than fell on London during the whole of the Great War. A ton bomb will destroy a whole city block; it will wreck any subterranean shelter which is roofed with less than 80ft. of solid earth or 13ft. of reinforced concrete. The effect of the first wave would be to drive the entire population underground, kill many thousands of people, and disorganise all public services, including food supplies. Psychologists estimate that the morale of a nation would be so wrecked by this fearful visitation that the few heroic people would be submerged in a complete collapse of character. On the heels of the first wave would arrive the second wave of raiders, dropping incendiary bombs filled with thermite, which burns at 3,000° Celsius, and cannot be put out by any known extinguisher. These bombs are so light and compact that thousands could be dropped. They would multiply their frightful effects with the aid of broken gas mains and blazing petrol stores. The people, crouching underground, would soon be aware that over their heads London was a sea of flame. The final wave of raiders would drop poison gas and vesicant dew. The poison gas, being heavier than air, would penetrate the underground refuges, excepting those protected by airtight doors and supplied with pure filtered air by tall conduits protruding above the gas level in the blazing streets. The vesicant chemicals are so noxious that a man will die if three drops touch no more than his foot; and their effect is semi-permanent, in that they can kill weeks or even months after they have been sprayed on a city.

Enough has already been written to show what modern warfare can be like. It only needs to be added that all these lethal substances can be dropped in containers with time fuses, so that fresh outbreaks occur periodically, long after the raiders have departed. And added to these might be such final abominations as the dropping of bacteria in enemy reservoirs. Surely when we contemplate these things there can be no two opinions on the necessity of safeguarding civilian populations from such horrors. In the last resort, of course, war in any form is an abomination; it becomes even more so when, as will surely be the case unless agreement is reached, the civilian population becomes the first objective.

NINTH SYMPHONIC CONCERT

SUNDAY'S GREAT SUCCESS

The ninth symphonic concert held at the Peninsula Hotel on Sunday again drew a full house, thus demonstrating the continued popularity of these most enjoyable functions.

A really excellent programme was selected, and in particular the piano solos of Mr. Maklezzoff were greatly appreciated. He gave wonderful interpretations of Rachmaninoff's Preludes in C, Sharp Minor and G, Minor, and was encored for each. Indeed, the audience appeared not even satisfied then. It is hoped this talented musician will again appear on solos in the near future. Another appreciated item was Thom's well-known "Simple Aveu," given as a cornet solo by Mr. C. Flocchi, while "Sally in Our Alley" was also well rendered. The final item, "Cavalcade," was a big hit, being loudly applauded.

Rumours are current that General Chien Hing-shan, former Nanking Minister of Communications, arrived in Hongkong from Shanghai on the President Jackson yesterday. It is believed that he is on his way abroad.

LONG LIFE &amp; HAPPINESS

SIX OLD MEN TELL THE SECRET.

By SIR DAVID MURRAY.

"The Grand Old Man of Painting," who is 83 years old.

LONG life and happiness depends, I think, more on oneself than on outside chances of fate and fortune. One hears much nowadays of the necessity for "keeping fit," and for this a tremendous amount of exercise is advocated. Personally I consider the modern cult for hardness in sport is very much overdone. It always makes me shudder when I read accounts of people who plunge into the Serpentine on Christmas morning.

After a certain age I am sure that the sensible thing is to take care of oneself. To rest when you feel like it, and never to eat so much as any meal that you would not be able to eat just a little more. Whether one should continue to take wines and spirits is a matter of opinion; I myself have not touched either for some years now, although there is nothing that I like better than a good glass of port.

At one time I always spent several months of the year in Picardy, Normandy or Italy, but now I find that an annual visit to Scotland, my native land, is of great health benefit and not nearly so tiring as travelling abroad.

For the rest I consider that work and friendship are both indispensable if one is to be happy. I am lucky in possessing many staunch friends, and my job is the most fascinating in the world. A landscape painter should be the happiest man alive, for he works in the open air, has no one to bother him, and he does just as he pleases. In fact I have always found that worries and anxieties disappear like magic as soon as I set to work with palette and brush.

By PREBENDARY CARLILE.

Founder and Honorary Chief Secretary of the Church Army.

I am eighty-five. I feel sure that if the opinions of so-called old people can be taken as a secret of long life, agreement will be found on one point only—that the secret is hard work and a vital interest in that work. On most other points, I am sure the discussion will reveal most contradictory opinions.

Some will tell us that tobacco and alcohol are not harmful, but, taken in moderation, may actually be helpful. I neither smoke tobacco nor drink alcohol, and although I am prepared to admit that some smokers and drinkers do live to a great age, I would add that they may have attained even greater years without either.

So far as food is concerned, I like to eat little and often. I don't touch meat now as it doesn't suit me. I am convinced that it is the way one eats rather than what one eats that is really important. I always give myself plenty of time over food.

We hear a lot about a healthy body, and in pursuit of that ideal more and more time is given over to sport. I have never felt the need for that type of recreation. My only real recreation has been change of work, and it is work and interest that keeps one alive.

Never get too comfortable. I have always avoided slippers and easy chairs. At Church Army Headquarters my office stool is intentionally high and uncomfortable. I can't fall asleep there, I have to keep on the move; I find work that wants doing, and work that ought to be set to work.

I always try to travel alone; a week or so ago I went to Plymouth and back in one day all alone. A companion would begin to "look after me and make me comfortable." In my case it would be fatal on the spot. Travelling thus helps one to make new friends and to hear other points of view which are useful and interesting. In such ways as these I keep—not half alive, which is another way to saying half dead—but all alive; and I agree with the great man who said a man only dies when he loses the will and the wish to live.

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

Heavy-weight Champion of the World in 1892; now 65 years old.

I do not look within twenty-five years of my age. Some friends, wishing to flatter me, tell me that I look like a man of thirty. I hardly believe that. But if they would tell me I look no older than a man of forty-five I would know they were sincere. There was never a day during my championship period when I felt any better than I feel every day now.

I do not say that I am in as good athletic condition. I would be foolish to think that at sixty-five I could do what I was doing when I was twenty-five. I know some men of my age who are trying that. They are just killing themselves. I think I am wiser than they for I have adapted my physical activities to my age. What I am talking about is real health, not athletic condition.

I have always considered proper eating the keystone of health. My study of diet began fifty years ago, when I was, I think, a weak boy. Tuberculosis settled on me before I was eight years old. The doctor predicted my death, but I fell on a manual of physical exercise and diet. It was the best investment I ever made. At twenty-five I was in perfect health.

Just before my famous contest with John L. Sullivan in 1892, a boxing critic predicted my downfall because he had seen me making a meal of ice-cream. John L. Sullivan was a great eater, but for all my fancy diet as they called it then, I overcame his brawn.

Now I eat a slight breakfast in the morning. All day long I never touch another thing. At six o'clock I have my dinner. I never eat red meat, and only a little chicken or fish about once a week.

I do a hundred "bends," back and forward, every night and morning. I stopped training forty years ago and haven't been in a gymnasium since. My simple home exercises keep me fit. Every day I walk from two to five miles. A walk to me means a vigorous exercise.

Get eight hours sleep, nine if you can. For the man who covets youth and health, sleep must be placed alongside proper diet and exercise in importance.

Finally, contentment seems to be one of the first essentials to good health. It is easily acquired. When I was younger I used to fret and fuss if things did not suit me. As I grew older I developed a philosophy of outlook and some of the serenity which you find in many old people.

These, in brief, are my secrets of a youthful and happy old age.

By LORD SYDENHAM OF COOMBE.

I am eighty-four years of age, and I attribute my long life and general good health to moderation in all things—continuous hard work, and many and varied interests and studies.

With regard to health I am not a faddist, possibly because I have never had time to be; but I smoke very little, drink a small quantity with lunch and dinner, and sleep as long as circumstances will allow. Although I am not fussy about my food, I do not eat meat. Fish and poultry, plenty of green vegetables and light egg dishes is the diet which appears to suit me best.

Public service in one form or another has always been of vital importance to me, but apart from this work there have always been many recreations to turn to. Music, painting, and photography, besides literary interests during the last twenty years. Thus I live a full and industrious life, and keep a mind which is fresh and receptive to new ideas.

To sum up, in my opinion, the best recipe for a long and happy life is to work hard and always, and by devoting your mind to public interests prevent concentration upon yourself.

By SIR JAMES CRICHTON-BROWNE.

I am over ninety years of age, and am well and fit. There is no aspect of life which I cannot enjoy, and if you were to ask me to what I owe my good health I would sum it up in one word—moderation.

I have no fads at all in life. I am not a vegetarian, and I am not (Continued on Page 9.)

OTTAWA WHEAT AS A BONE OF CONTENTION

DIFFICULTIES ARISE AT OUTSET

CURRENCY ISSUE

Ottawa, July 25.
Wheat appears to have cropped up in the Imperial Conference discussions as a severe hurdle.

The delegates to the Conference have had an extremely busy day behind closed doors, the earliest result of the conversations being confidence among the Dominion delegates that the Dominions will displace Danish bacon and butter in the British markets.

Wheat, however, appears to be providing a bone of contention inasmuch as while the Dominion representatives want action against the dumping of Russian grain, there is a growing opinion among shippers and millers that the present situation (namely, the milling quota system) is best left unaltered.

CURRENCY AND PREFERENCE.

The Dominion delegates are also inclined to the view that decisions upon preferences will be of little value until the currency question has been settled.

It is reported, however, that both the British and Canadian delegates have expressed the belief that effective action in this connexion must wait the autumn world economic conference.

GODOWN THEFT GANG

TWO MEMBERS SENT TO GAOL

Consequent on the report of thefts from the Kowloon Godowns, two colics were brought before Mr. Fraser at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court this morning, charged with theft of 11 packets of plane blades. Inspector Elston said the first defendant hid himself inside the godown one night, and when the gates were opened the next morning, he passed the blades to the second defendant who went out and tried to pawn them. The police suspected that the first defendant was the leader of a dangerous gang of godown thieves, and asked his Worship to impose a heavy penalty.

Mr. C. M. Manners, of the Godown company, who was in Court asked his Worship to make an example of the defendants. It was revealed that the first defendant served a month's imprisonment in June, and the second, six weeks in the same month.

His Worship:—You have not let the grass grow under your feet after your discharge, have you? The first defendant was sentenced to four months and the second to two.

RAW TOBACCO LEAVES

CAUTION GIVEN FOR POSSESSION

When a Hunan Chinese was charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones to-day with the possession of a quantity of raw tobacco leaves on which duty had not been paid, the question was raised as to how the defendant could have hoped to dispose of goods of this character.

Revenue Officer Ward, who prosecuted, replied that although in general the leaves could not have been sold except through legitimate dealers, there was at any rate a direct use for it, as he had known the leaves to be chewed and also used by Indians for their hookahs.

His Worship decided that a caution would meet the case, but ordered the confiscation of the leaves.

EXCHANGE MARKET LIFELESS

NO CHANGE IN THE DOLLAR

The Hongkong dollar remains unchanged, with the local exchange market still featureless. Silver is down 1/16th in London. India was a small buyer, and China a small seller, the market being quiet. After the official fixing, America was inclined to support the market.

New York reports silver up 1/8th, with the market steady.

ATHLETICS NOSE OUT N.Y. YANKEES

Philadelphia Fielder Breaks Collar-bone

New York, July 25.
No play was possible in the National League to-day, and the Detroit-St. Louis match in the American was called owing to rain, but Philadelphia Athletics managed to beat the Yankees in a keen fight at Shibe Park.

Hans and Mahaffey hit home runs for the Athletics while Lazzeri and Gehrig scored similarly for the Yankees. Cramer (Athletics) broke his collar-bone when he fell in going after a two-bagger by Sewell in the sixth inning.

Scores:

Philadelphia ..... 8 12 1
New York ..... 7 10 1

Another correction affecting matches played during the week-end reveals that Philadelphia's 8-4 victory on Friday was against Washington, not against St. Louis, while in the National League on Saturday, Cincinnati defeated St. Louis Cardinals 3-2, instead of losing 4-3.—Reuter.

GLOUCESTER BLDG. INCIDENT

WINDOW SMASHED WITH LADDER

"The police are asking for a week's remand, for special reasons, in order to endeavour to go into the man's antecedents," said Detective Sergeant Macdonald when charging a Northern Chinese before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistrate's to-day with the theft of a pair of step-ladders and with maliciously damaging a plate glass window and a marble statue worth $800 at the corner shop of Mr. Raoul Bugazzi sculptor and decorator, in Gloucester Building. Sergeant Macdonald stated that at 2.30 p.m. on Sunday, it was alleged, the defendant took the step-ladders from an empty shop two doors away from Mr. Bugazzi's took them to the complainant's shop and banged them through the plate glass. As his Worship could see, the glass was tremendously thick, and it would require great force to have shattered it. At one corner near the glass was a marble statue which was knocked over and broken. It fell on a marble bench near-by and chipped it.

Defendant, while admitting that he broke the glass, declared that he did not know how the statue came to be broken.

Sergeant Macdonald, in asking for a week's formal remand, raised the question of bail, which he continued, should not be less than $1,000, considering that the statue was valued at $800 and that the damage done to the window amounted to $85.

Defendant was remanded for a week.

OBSTRUCTION IN KOWLOON

THREE HOTEL CASES HEARD

Three summonses against the Nathan Hotel, Kum Toi Hotel and the New Asia Hotel for obstruction were heard at the Kowloon Magistrate's before Mr. Fraser this morning.

Mr. Kemble, of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, said he had intended to ask his Worship to adjourn the cases sine die to allow his clients to remove the obstructions—plants and placards outside the hotels—or until some arrangement could be come to with the Police.

Mr. Fraser suggested that the cases be adjourned in order to give the defendants an opportunity to apply for permission to keep the plants and placards at the entrance of their hotels. If the authorities granted it then it would be all right.

Mr. Kemble decided to plead guilty to a technical offence and his Worship cautioned all defendants.

CONFIDENCE PACT.

GERMANY ACCEPTS OFFER TO JOIN DISCUSSIONS

Berlin, July 25.
The German Government has accepted the invitation to join the Anglo-French "Confidence Pact," announced by Sir John Simon in the House of Commons on July 13. This provides a complete and candid exchange of views on European questions.

Other nations have been invited to subscribe, and this brings the total of adherents to eight, including Italy, Belgium, Poland, Hungary and Yugoslavia.—Reuter.

BATCH OF MOTOR OFFENCES

YOUNG LADY DRIVES PUBLIC CAR

A number of summonses against motor-drivers for speeding and dangerous driving came before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court to-day.

A lorry driver was fined $30 for speeding in Belcher's Street on the afternoon of the 8th instant. He was seen by Sergeant Perkins on motor-patrol.

An owner-driver, Kwan Yau-kwong, was fined a like amount for speeding through the controlled area of Aberdeen Village on private car No. 2870.

The driver of taxicab No. 567 was summoned by sub-inspector Saunders for rounding a bend at Caine Road at an excessive speed and on the wrong side of the road. A fine of $25 was imposed.

Sgt. Howell summoned a public car driver for negligent driving and for allowing an unlicensed person (a young woman) to drive his car. The incident is alleged to have occurred on the Repulse Bay Road at 6.15 in the morning.

The officer stated that on his approach, the girl and the driver changed places, the driver going back to his seat at the wheel. He next drove the car in a zig-zag fashion, apparently with the idea of preventing the witness from getting up to him.

On the charge of negligent driving, the driver was fined $25. On the charge of allowing an unlicensed person to drive his car he was fined a further $10.

It was stated that a separate summons is being taken against the lady next week.

Yuen Wan-lung, driving a small Austin car, No. 3153, summoned for dangerous driving on the lower road leading down to the beach at Repulse Bay, was fined $25. It was stated he was involved in a slight collision with another Austin.

cont as he went. On reaching the first flight of steps he kicked off his shoes and dived into the water.

HIGH SEA RUNNING.

There was a fairly high sea running at the time and it took some time for Mr. Heytman to reach the bath. He appeared to try to turn her over but failed, so, pushing the body before him, it seemed that the rescuer had arrived too late—he managed, after another hard struggle against the waves to get her to the side, where ready hands pulled her ashore. Mr. Heytman was very exhausted when he left the water.

Blankets were obtained, and the unconscious woman was wrapped up in them, while a guest at the hotel, a trained nurse, applied artificial respiration. After a little time this had effect, and Mrs. Lane recovered slightly.

The ambulance then arrived and she was taken to the General Hospital, where she was detained until next morning, when she was discharged, suffering from slight shock.

The difficulty of Mr. Heytman's task in saving Mrs. Lane was enhanced by the fact that he was wearing heavy grey flannel trousers, and when these were soaked with water they proved a great handicap.

ALLEGED DIAMOND THEFT

ACCUSED AGAIN REMANDED

David Dietrich Dohse, wanted by the Dutch East Indian authorities for alleged larceny of a package of diamonds worth $3,800, made another appearance before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistrate's to-day.

Mr. T. Murphy, A.S.P., told the Court that no further information had as yet been received from the Dutch Government, and the police desired another week's remand. If in the meantime the documents arrived, the case would be brought up earlier.

Dohse was again remanded for a week.

MOVIE MAN SHOT.

CRIME ATTRIBUTED TO CHANG VOLUNTEER

Tokyo, July 25.
A message from Mukden states that a German movie operator, Captain Strang, was shot in the abdomen by one of Chang Hauch-liang's volunteers on July 23, while taking photos at Chaoyang. He was sent to the Japanese Military Hospital at Chinchow, and thence to Mukden.—Reuter.

DAUGHTER'S STRIKING TRIBUTE

Just the one word "Haigh," the name by which his school chums knew him, is the inscription on the life-size statue of the great Field-Marshal, which was unveiled by Lady Alexandra Haig, his eldest daughter, at Clifton College, Bristol.

Before she released the Union Jack, Lady Alexandra Haig referred to her family's and the nation's pride in her father, and asked the boys to regard the statue as a memorial, not to one man only, but also to the men he loved and the cause he served.

"I hope," she said, "that future generations of Cliftonians will not only look upon this statue of my father and think of him with pride and esteem, but also I should like them to think of him as one of themselves, as one whose character was welded in the same school and on the same playing fields, as one who tried to live up to high standards in life, as one who never forgot the friends who deserved well of him, and, lastly, as one who could meet with triumph and disaster, and treat these two impostors just the same."

Field-Marshal Sir William Birdwood, Bart., president of the Old Cliftonians Society, in presenting the statue to the school, said he had been with Earl Haig at school, in India, South Africa, and the Great War. Steadfastness, courage, and honour were the factors which dominated his character throughout his life, and these, with his consideration for those under him, enabled him to serve his country so magnificently, not only during the War, but also in the burden of the after years.

JOY RIDE COSTS FIFTY DOLLARS

MOTOR CYCLE TAKEN AWAY

At the Central Magistrate's this morning, Francis Lee was charged with being in possession of a motor cycle No. 189, without the permission of the owner, Mr. Cheung Wan, of Wing Lok Street.

Complainant stated that he left his machine outside the Hongkong & Shanghai Bank in Des Voeux Road, at 10 o'clock on the morning of the 9th, July, and discovered that it had disappeared when he left the bank shortly afterwards.

Traffic Sergeant McInnes deposed to arresting the defendant at 12.15 p.m. on the same day in Queen's Road.

Defendant, who did not appear, was fined $50.

CROWN LAND SALE.

YESTERDAY'S AUCTION AT THE P. W. D.

Three lots of Crown land were put up for sale at yesterday's auction at the Public Works Department office. The bidding was dull, and all the lots were sold at their upset prices.

On behalf of the Arts and Crafts, Ltd., Messrs. Little, Adams and Wood purchased a lot of about 20,000 square feet of land situated near Quarry Bay, for the upset price of $20,000.

An area of about 3,520 square feet of land situated at Wong Nei Chung was bought by Mrs. Yam Yuk-king for the upset price of $3,660. The buyer resides at 317, Queen's Road, West.

The third lot of about 22,560 square feet of land, situated on the south-west side of the Shaukiwan-Tyatam Tai Road, was bought by Messrs. Hazeland and Gonella on behalf of the Salesian Society for the upset price of $1,123.

MAKING A CHAMPION TENNIS PINNACLE NOT A BIRTH RIGHT

Watching such players as Borotra, Perry, Austin, Mrs. Moody, and Mrs. Whittington at Wimbledon, one is led to believe that the fluent strokes they possess and the clever tactics they display on the courts are entirely natural; that, to them, in fact, lawn tennis is a gift.

Nothing is further from the truth. A lawn tennis champion is not born—he has to make himself by hard and sound practice, and he can only maintain his skill, when once he has arrived, by still more practice.

As a matter of fact, the only natural qualities essential to a champion are a good head and a good eye, good lungs, and fairly good muscles. Thousands of tennis players possess these qualities and could become champions if they had the leisure, willingness and intelligence to learn correct strokes, to plan good tactics, and to develop good strategy.

There are very few junior tournaments in France and very few handicap events. Young players are rightly kept to friendly games and to practice; if they enter open tournaments they are quickly beaten.

"LIKE FATHER..."

HAGEN? The name's familiar! ... Walter Hagen, Jr., putting at Fresh Meadows, displays golfing form not unlike that of his famous father.

I think this policy of the French Federation is wise writes Rene Lacoste. Too much tournament play is not good for a youngster; it spoils his style and tires him physically, and anyone who becomes "junior champion" soon thinks that he has nothing to learn—that he will naturally become a real champion. And that, of course, is a complete fallacy: It takes from five to ten years of hard work to learn correct strokes, and even real champions have to work hard to make their strokes better and better.

FRIENDLY PRACTICE.
A young player must always practise more than he plays; that is to say, he must spend many more hours in improving his strokes than in using them to win games and sets. I believe that I owe most of my skill to the hundreds of hours that I have spent in playing against various walls. And I must thank the wall against which I played this spring for my decent play in the French championship.

The French "Musketeers" always owed much of their good form to their friendly practice games; we always play without knowing too much about the score, with the idea of practising our weakest strokes rather than using our best ones. Practising with Borotra, I play from the net while he stays at the back of the court, and Cochet and Brugnon deliberately exchange backhands whenever they practise together.

The same friendly spirit certainly helps the English and American players to improve their strokes whenever they practise between themselves, but I suspect that that is not very often: there are too many tournaments in England.

Of course, a young player does need tournament experience—I would say even the experience of foreign tournaments. And I am certain that Perry, Austin, and Hughes owe most of the improvement in their play to the various tours which were arranged for them by the English Association. But a sound balance must always be maintained between practice and tournament play if one wishes to go on improving and to avoid staleness.

JAPAN AND THE OLYMPICS CONFIDENCE IN TRACK STARS SUCCESS EXPECTED

Japan's political and military affairs have not checked preparations for sending the nation's strongest athletic forces to Los Angeles for the Olympic Games. Having broken through for the first time to win a gold medal in the track and field competition, through the triumph of little Miki Oda in the hop, step and jump at Amsterdam four years ago, Japan now envisions a much wider range of conquest.

The land of the rising sun this year has high hopes of sweeping the first three places in the hop, step and jump, capturing the broad jump, giving the Americans real contests in the pole vault and high jump, besides competing on even terms with the Finnish distance runners for the classic marathon laurel wreath.

TRACK BIGGEST AIM.
Oda has surpassed himself in preparing to defend the triple jump title. He beat the world record of A. W. Winter of Australia with a distance of 51 feet, 1 1/4 inches in the national Japanese championships last October.

In the same meet Chuhei Nambu broad-jumped 26 feet, 2 1/4 inches, two inches beyond the world record held by Sylvio Cator of Haiti. Nambu and another jumper, Oshima, are both capable of 60 feet in the hop, step and jump, so that Japan will be amply fortified in this field event.

STRONG IN OTHER JUMPS.
Kimura, the high jumper with a mark of more than 6 feet 5 inches and Nishida, who has pole vaulted 13 feet 7 inches, are looked upon as contenders in specialties usually dominated by the Americans.

Japan took two of the first six places in the 1928 marathon, with Yamada fourth and Tsuda sixth. They might have done better had they rated their pace a little better through the early stages but both dropped back after alternating in the lead much of the way. Out of the pack the Algerian, El Ouafi, galloped to victory.

The recent performances of two new marathoners, Takahashi and Yahagi, have rekindled Japanese hopes. Both, in the official try-out, bettered the Olympic record of 2:32:35 4/5, set by Hannes Kolehmainen of Finland in 1920. Yahagi was timed in 2:31:31 and Takahashi in 2:32:26.

CANTABS BEAT OXFORD "DARK BLUES" WIN POLO

There was a great gathering at the Bath Club when Oxford and Cambridge met in the annual swimming and water-polo fixture. As expected Cambridge won all the swimming events, but in the 50 and 100 yards events the Old Pauline, J. E. Durkin, put up performances much speedier than expected.

In the 50 yards Durkin led at the turn, then Bowman drew level, and ten yards from the finish both were fighting hard, but Bowman's arm came through very quickly for the touch, and this just gave the verdict to Cambridge.

In the 100 yards Newbold went clean away from the start in an effort to beat the Varsity record of 57 3/4 sec. At half-distance he led Durkin by two yards, with Bowman a yard away in third place. There was no change until the last length, when Bowman sprinted, but he failed to catch Durkin, while Newbold failed to equal record by the narrow margin of 1/4 sec.

The burly Stortford Coleman had an easy journey in the 440 yards, drawing away from the Cambridge second string, R. L. Armstrong, after passing the 100 yards mark. P. G. Bosstock, who swam first string for Oxford, struck a particularly bad patch, as he was 20 sec. below form and actually finished fourth.

Oxford won the water polo by 5 goals to 1. Britton scored four goals and Durkin one for Oxford. Newbold scored for Cambridge.

Results:
50 yards.—W. P. Bowman (Bowdon College, U.S.A., and Clare), 1; J. E. Durkin (St. Paul's and Queen's), 2; L. T. Stevenson (Clifton and Balliol), 3; G. H. Baines (Charterhouse and St. John's), 4. Time, 25 3/4 sec. Won by 6 inches.

100 yards.—J. C. Newbold (Bishop's Stortford and Triniv.), 1; J. E. Durkin, 2; W. P. Bowman, 3; M. L. Underhill (Shrewsbury and Queen's), 4. Times, 57 3/4 sec. Won by 2 yards.

440 yards.—F. Coleman (Bishop's Stortford and Emmanuel), 1; R. L. Armstrong (Brighton and Emmanuel), 2; W. Koren (Princeton and Queen's), 3; P. G. Bosstock (Charterhouse and Queen's), 4. Won by 12 yards.

Relay, 300 yards.—Cambridge 1, Oxford 2, Cambridge led throughout to win by 2 yards.

DOUMER'S SLAYER ON TRIAL.

FACTS OF SHOOTING NOT IN DISPUTE

Paris, July 25.

The assassination of M. Paul Doumer, President of France, on May 6 had a sequel this afternoon, when the trial of the assassin, Gorgouloff, a Russian, began.

The court was crowded with distinguished people and the populace packed the streets.

After the reading of the indictment, Gorgouloff's counsel pointed out that while three experts for the prosecution found the accused sane, three experts for the defence were convinced that Gorgouloff was insane.

The possibility of Gorgouloff's escaping the guillotine entirely depends on the medical evidence, as the facts of the shooting are undisputed.—Reuter.

rather ill at ease. The girl who faced him was tall and slender. Her dress of black woolen stuff had a nun-like frill of white at the throat. The man noticed that her skin had an extraordinary, translucent fineness, and that she wore no makeup. Her eyes were enormous.

As the girl advanced Dunbar began to speak quickly and glibly. If Susan was not the sort of person he had expected to see, he gave no sign. His method of attack was simple. He would play on her better feeling. He would make her see that marriage with a penniless boy would be quite different from marriage to the heir of millions.

"I'm Bob Dunbar's father," he began. Susan was not surprised. From Bob the night before she had heard the whole story. "I don't want you to think," the man pursued winningly, "that I've come here in an antagonistic mood. On the contrary, I feel very friendly toward you and now that I've seen you I must applaud my son's taste."

He seated himself at her invitation. "I only want to make it quite clear that there were good reasons for my behaving as I did when my son told me his plans. Robert is, I'm afraid, very impulsive, and," here he shook his head sadly, "extremely fickle. Perhaps you do not know that he is virtually bound in another agreement." He paused to let the words sink in.

Susan said, "I'm afraid I don't quite understand."

Mr. Dunbar smiled. "Of course you don't, my dear young lady," he assured her. "The scamp would never tell you about himself."

"If you mean Denise Ackroyd, I do know all about that," Susan said quietly.

The man's jaw dropped. "Oh, you do! Then I know you're going to be sensible about it. If you're fond of my son you won't want to stand in his way. His mother and I feel deeply on the subject of his marrying Denise. In fact his whole future depends upon it. His grandfather's money is being held in trust for him. Robert will receive it when he is 25 on the condition that he marries with our approval. You see?" He smiled at her.

THIRTEEN DAYS

EXPERIMENTAL AIR MAIL PROVES SUCCESSFUL

An experimental mail sent by Hongkong postal officials to London, via the Saigon-Marseilles air route, reached its destination in 13 days.

The mail, which consisted of only 15 letters, was despatched from Hongkong to Saigon by the Messageries Maritimes liner Athos II, on June 7. The letters arrived at Saigon on June 10, and were despatched next day by air mail, arriving at Marseilles at 7 p.m. on June 19. They were immediately forwarded to Paris, where the regular Imperial Airways service picked them up and transmitted them to London. They arrived there on June 21. The actual transit time between Hongkong and London was 13 days, and between Saigon and London, 10 days.

The average transit time for mail to the United Kingdom via the Siberian route is 20 days, although mail has been received in London 18 days after despatch from Hongkong. The air service thus shows a saving of from five to 10 days.

Service Open to Public.

Postal officials stated yesterday that specially superscribed mail will now be sent via the Saigon-Marseilles air route, on prepayment of the requisite air mail charges, which, in addition to the ordinary rates of postage, are:

Destination	Rate per 1/2 oz.
Siam	15 cts.
Hurma	25 cts.
Perin	25 cts.
Iraq	95 cts.
Palestine	$1.05
Greece	$1.20
Italy	$1.35
France	$1.35
Great Britain & Irish Free State	$1.35

Air mail charges may be prepaid with Hongkong stamps. The aerial mail service leaves Saigon every Saturday, and postal officials here will utilize every available means to connect with the service. Letters will be despatched from Hongkong to Saigon by steamer, and will be handed over there to the aerial service.

Proposed Direct Service.

The present service is distinct from the proposed direct service by air between Saigon and Hongkong, tentatively arranged by the Compagnie Francaise Air Orient, the French company operating the Saigon-Marseilles service. The first of the experimental flights between Saigon and Hongkong will be made soon.

Large tri-motored Breguet monoplanes are utilized in the service between Saigon and Marseilles, and, in addition to carrying air-mail, carry passengers and cargo. The machines leave Saigon every Saturday morning and arrive at Marseilles on the Sundays of the following week.

From time to time there have been projects to link Hongkong and outside centres by air. In 1924 a Chinese syndicate was floated in Shanghai with a capital of $200,000 for the purpose of starting a service between the Northern port and Hongkong. Nothing came of the project and another service, which was mooted in the next year, also came to naught.

SHIP COLLISION APPEAL

FURTHER POINTS RAISED

MR. SHELTON'S
ADDRESS

Mr. H. G. Sheldon, representing the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, this morning continued his address to the Full Court of Appeal at present hearing his argument that the judgment of Sir Joseph Kemp in favour of the China Navigation Company should be quashed and judgment given for the Japanese company.

The case arose out of the collision on March 22nd, 1931, of the N. Y. K. Steamer Toyooka Maru and the China Navigation Company's Kiangsu.

The Court comprised Sir Peter Grafton, Sir Joseph Kemp, Mr. Justice Wood, Commander E. D. Brooke and Lieut. Commander Rudyard Kipling, R. N. (Naval assessors).

Mr. Eldon Potter, K. C., and Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K. C., instructed by Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master, appeared for the respondents. Mr. H. G. Sheldon instructed by Messrs. Hastings, Denny and Howley, represented the appellants.

"NO NEGLIGENCE."

"There is no rule of law or seamanship," said Mr. Sheldon, "which imposes on the Toyooka Maru the necessity of doing anything except what she did, that is, reverse her engines and go astern. From evidence given, it is clear that the Toyooka Maru was ready to let her anchors go. There can be no question of negligence."

Mr. Sheldon submitted that even if the anchors had been dropped, no-one could say definitely that the collision would have been avoided.

The next point taken by Mr. Sheldon was that the speed of the Kiangsu was excessive. Although master and pilot of the Toyooka Maru gave evidence that, judging by the bow wave, the speed of the Kiangsu was seven or eight knots, Mr. Sheldon said this evidence could be taken by the Court for what it was worth. His main support was the evidence of Captain Ritchie of the Kiangsu.

LORD LYTTON BETTER

GENERAL CONDITION
SATISFACTORY

Peking, July 26.
Lord Lytton's fever has abated and the infection is decreasing. It is reported that his general condition is satisfactory.

General Crozier and von Kotze passed a good night, and their condition has improved. Von Kotze is believed to be out of danger.

Captain Ritchie had given his position at 7.45 as in line with the Channel Rocks and the Taikoo Reef. At 7.47 he entered a thick fog and remained in it until 7.51. At 7.52 the collision occurred.

SPEED OF KIANGSU.

Mr. Sheldon submitted that on Capt. Ritchie's own evidence, the distance between his position at 7.45 and the point of collision was 734 cables. If, according to his own evidence, he covered that distance in six minutes, then his average speed must have been 734 knots over ground.

It had to be remembered, too, that for four of these six minutes he was going through thick fog. It might have been that at the time of sighting the Toyooka Maru the Kiangsu was making six knots, but if that were so, her speed during the previous five minutes must have been over eight knots. He contended that the master of the Kiangsu should have slowed down when, four minutes before the collision, he knew a ship was crossing his vessel's bows.

According to Capt. Ritchie's evidence, the whistles of the Toyooka Maru were sounding nearer and finer. That, he submitted, was clear indication that a ship was crossing the Kiangsu's bows.

THE OTHER VIEW.

Asked to explain his position, Mr. Potter said that on the facts of this case, Capt. Ritchie was justified in inferring from the whistles that the Toyooka Maru was an outward bound ship, keeping a northerly course.

Continuing, Mr. Sheldon submitted that the Kiangsu, was not navigated according to the rule that a ship's speed should be such as to enable her to avoid danger when the danger was first sighted. The case is proceeding.

CANTON GUNBOAT DISASTER

EXPLOSION IN THE MAGAZINE

Following an explosion which occurred in the ammunition magazine, a disastrous fire destroyed the Chinese gunboat Ying Chit opposite the Eastern Bund in Canton City on Sunday evening.

The fire lasted for over an hour. Seven members of the crew sustained serious injuries and had to be admitted to hospital for treatment while many others received minor injuries and bruises. The fire spread rapidly after the explosion and within thirty minutes the whole vessel was burning fiercely. It sank shortly after midnight.
